District to run alarm scheme for elderly

DISTRICT councillors have agreed to run a scaled-down pendant alarms scheme for the elderly after it was scrapped amid £6m of budget cuts.

Staffordshire County Council slashed the money from its Supporting People Grant.

Cannock Chase Council criticised the county for failing to carry out a public consultation on the move.

It has now decided to fund the social alarms scheme for the elderly in their homes at a cost of £107,000. It will be provided to the 'most vulnerable' people.

The authority currently gets £214,000 from the county each year to fund the scheme so it is free for more than 2,000 users, but will no longer get that sum.

At a district council cabinet meeting, leader George Adamson said: "All the county council want to do is cut funding. This is putting people at risk."

Councillor Muriel Davis, for health and wellbeing, said: "It does not seem right that the county council makes decisions to cut budgets only for other councils to pick up the pieces."

"They have dealt with this badly. We need to protect services for the most vulnerable."

Fire awards to go ahead

AN awards ceremony honouring firefighters who go the extra mile will be held next week after being postponed due to strike action.

The Staffordshire Fire and Rescue Service MORE Awards will take place at Cannock Community Fire Station, Hednesford Road, on Tuesday (July 29).

Firefighters, support staff, elected members and volunteers have been shortlisted.

The ceremony was originally due to be held at Staffordshire's County Showground last month.

Householders help crews to tackle field blaze

The aftermath of the straw field blaze in Cannock

WORRIED residents joined forces with more than 30 firefighters to help put out a huge blaze in a straw field near Cannock.

The fire – believed to have been started deliberately – took hold shortly before 2.30pm on Tuesday in a field bordering West Chadsmoor and Huntington.

Crews from Cannock, Brewwood, Stafford, Rugeley and Lichfield battled flames for more than an hour in the 100m x 300m field.

They used hose reel jets and beaters to control the fire – and were assisted by residents who battled to stop the flames from reaching their homes in nearby Sycamore Green.

Neil Burton, station manager at Staffordshire Fire and Rescue, said: "It is shocking that some people are prepared to put the lives of firefighters and of members of the public at risk in such a careless and nonchalant manner."

The fire is believed to have been started by two local youngsters who have been identified by police.

Mr Burton added: "This fire was lit deliberately and would have had far more devastating consequences if it was not for the quick action of the crews."

No injuries have been reported as a result of the fire.

Four years ago the fire service launched its Flames Aren't Games campaign, which aims to reduce fires and anti-social behaviour. Since the scheme was rolled out, the number of small fires including grass and bin blazes has dropped significantly.

Crews dealt with 2,281 incidents in 2013 and 3,505 in 2011, when the project was initially rolled out.

Patient sues over damage to spine

AN NHS patient who developed pressure sores so severe that they caused part of her spine to rot away is suing hospital chiefs for up to £300,000 damages.

Christine Reaney, aged 66, of Burntwood, was still enjoying an active life, including regularly walking her dog, before developing the condition during a series of hospital stays in 2008 and 2009. It led to several of her bones disintegrating.

Staff at North Staffordshire Royal Infirmary and Cannock and Stafford hospitals failed to take appropriate action when the main sore at the base of Mrs Reaney's spine became 'necrotic' and the rot spread from her flesh into her bones, her barrister Caroline Hallisey told London's High Court.

Mrs Reaney suffers from hip dislocation and is unable to sit upright or walk. She is 'bed bound' and cannot even use a wheelchair.

Barrister Charles Feeney, representing the Mid Staffordshire NHS Foundation Trust and University Hospital of North Staffordshire NHS trust, told Mr Justice Foskett: "This is a case of admitted and significant breach of duty."

The amount of damages is disputed. The hearing continues.

Cut fears on library hours

A COUNCILLOR fears hours could be cut at Burntwood library despite a current review on the future of the county's venues.

Consultation has begun but county councillor Sue Woodward voiced concerns over a document that says the Sankeys Corner library will open late on one day a week instead of two and open later on a Saturday.

She said: "It appears that in some areas decisions have already been made."

● Talks – Page 10

PLEA OVER 600 HEALTH JOBS

UP to 600 staff from Mid-Staffordshire NHS Foundation Trust are moving to Wolverhampton in a multi-million pound recruitment deal.

But an MP has stressed that patients must not be compromised as a result of the move. Hospital services are being merged as part of the dissolution of Mid-Staffordshire NHS Foundation Trust.

Staff will join the Royal Wolverhampton Hospitals trust and work either at New Cross in Wolverhampton or Cannock Chase Hospital – or a mixture of the two.

Pat McFadden, Labour MP for Wolverhampton South East, says patients must not suffer a reduction in care when the switch-over takes place.

Mr McFadden welcomed the news but stressed it was vitally important that services for patients weren't compromised by the bold expansion plans.

Essential

"My position all along has been if the Government is to downgrade Mid-Staffordshire NHS Foundation Trust and transfer work to New Cross Hospital then its absolutely essential that New Cross is fully funded both in terms of staff and capital expenditure to take on this extra work," he said.

"It is essential that patients do not suffer any reduction in quality as a result of these changes."

The takeover will considerably expand New Cross' workforce as preparations are finalised for the dissolution of the Mid-Staffordshire NHS Foundation Trust.

Bosses hope that when they start sending non-emergency surgery cases to Cannock Hospital it will free up vital space.

Pressure on staff is greater than ever before and chiefs hope that the 600 new employees – as well as 170 nurses who are being taken on in an ongoing overseas recruitment drive – will ease pressure.

The Royal Wolverhampton NHS Trust currently employs 6,700 staff and has an operating budget of £374m, but that will now soar. Letters were recently sent to staff informing them of the move, with many being told they were now working for University Hospital North Staffordshire (UHNS), which is expected to take on even more people than the Wolverhampton trust.

David Loughton, chief executive, has remained confident that the plans to take over at Cannock and expand New Cross will work.

They will see up to 10,000 patients treated at Cannock Chase Hospital, run by New Cross bosses, with patients ferried between the two hospitals on free shuttle buses.

Mr Loughton oversaw a similar project at his previous hospital trust, with hospitals in Coventry and Rugby.

Memorial garden at school

Help for Heroes fundraiser Andy Sawyer, pupils and guests

A SPECIAL garden dedicated to honouring those who lost their lives in the First World War has been unveiled at a Rugeley school.

The garden, featuring bright red poppies, was opened at Churchfield Primary by Andy Sawyer, who recently tackled a 350-mile bike ride for Help for Heroes.

Mr Sawyer, who was in the RAF for seven years as a caterer, has two children at the school.

While on the Big Battlefield Bike Ride in June – which took him from Brussels to Paris with a group of his friends – the 45-year-old from Hednesford carried a Union flag signed by other people taking part including cyclist Mark Cavendish.

The Union flag and Australian and Canadian flags from other teams on the ride have been given to the school and will go on display.

Mr Sawyer said: "The garden looks really nice."

The scheme was launched in schools for eight-to-10-year-olds across Staffordshire and Stoke-on-Trent, including at Chancel Primary.

A specially-selected group of 10 children took part in six one-hour sessions, led by local Police Community Support Officer Debbie Gardner during school time, covering areas including road safety, police investigations and anti-social behaviour. The sessions culminated in a school assembly about anti-social behaviour.

The Junior Cadets were presented with certificates for completing the sessions by Cannock Chase Local Policing Team Commander Chief Inspector Stephen Morrey. The children also received their own pocket books to fill in during sessions along with a Junior Police Cadet baseball cap and T-shirt for completing the course.

Police & Crime Commissioner Matthew Ellis, who instigated the scheme, said: "It's fantastic that primary school children are now becoming Junior Cadets and taking part in a programme which teaches them how to become responsible citizens."

Number of patients using A&E on rise

The number of people attending the accident and emergency department at Stafford Hospital has risen for the first time in almost four years.

The number of children being treated as outpatients has also soared year on year despite concerns that too few new recruits cannot be found to work there following inquiries into care standards.

Figures obtained by MP Jeremy Lefroy show more people are using A&E, even though it is closed at night.

Provisional figures for 2013/14 released in Parliament show 46,302 people used the department, compared with 45,344 the year before – the first increase at Stafford since 2010.

The number of children aged 17 and under using outpatient services has also increased from 23,257 in 2009 to 27,163 in the past year.

It comes after plans were revealed to cut 58 beds at Stafford due to staff shortages.

Andrew Donald, chief officer of the Stafford and Surrounds Clinical Commissioning Group, said the Mid Staffordshire NHS Foundation Trust was doing 'all it can' to recruit and retain staff 'but the fact remains that it is struggling to attract sufficient numbers of qualified nurses to avoid having to rely on agency or temporary staff'.

Professor Sir Mike Richards, chief inspector of hospitals urged those involved in moving services from Mid Staffordshire NHS Foundation Trust to other hospitals to develop a clear transition plan without delay.

He has written to watchdog Monitor, the Trust Development Authority and the Trust Special Administrator following a request to inspect the Trust.

In his letter, Professor Richards said: "The senior managers at MSFT, including the chief executive are having to spend inordinate amounts of time ensuring that individual nursing shifts are adequately filled and that sufficient numbers of medical staff will be available for different services.

"To date they have been able to do this, but I would emphasise the word just."

Cheryl Porter from the the Support Stafford Hospital group said: "It proves that people want to go to their local hospital"

Speaking in Parliament, Mr Lefroy said: "My constituents and others are extremely concerned that the trust special administrator's plans, which the Secretary of State endorsed, to keep A&E, acute medicine and many other services at Stafford are at risk."

Protest set to continue

Protesters Simon Reeves, Rachel Dale, Stuart Hickey and Francesca Hickey, aged seven, with Barry Davies, Geoff Small and Garry Marshall

CAMPAIGNERS who set up camp at Stafford Hospital could continue their protest for another two weeks.

Around 100 people braved thunderstorms and torrential rain to camp out in the hospital grounds in protest at the loss of services from the Weston Road site. It comes after two applications to launch legal bids against the downgrading of the hospital were rejected.

The University Hospital of North Staffordshire and the Royal Wolverhampton

Trust are set to take control of Stafford and Cannock Hospitals later this year.

Support Stafford Hospital campaigner Julian Porter said campaigners would continue to fight for as long as they have to – whatever the weather.

He added: "We could be here until the end of the month or for another two weeks I just can't put a time on it.

"We want the administrators to see that we are still here and we are going to continue our fight."

Pupils will be first to take new exam

YOUNGSTERS in Cheslyn Hay will be among the first in the country to be able to take a new maths exam.

Cheslyn Hay Sport and Community Highs one of the first schools in the country to adopt the new Core Maths exam, which slots between GCSE and A level.

The school is one of 179 across Britain which will be offering the two-year course to youngsters who join its sixth form in September.

It is aimed at the 40 per cent of youngsters who achieve a GCSE grade C but do not take A level maths.

Cheslyn Hay has been asked to begin offering the course a year early and South Staffordshire MP Gavin Williamson said: "I have no doubt that increasing the number of students who receive further training in this field will pay huge dividends in the future."

The courses aim to build students' competence and confidence in mathematical techniques including statistics, advanced calculation, financial maths and modelling.

They are designed to prepare students for further study and careers such as business, marketing, computing, nursing or manufacturing.

M6 lorry in diesel spill

A LANE was closed on the M6 after a lorry smashed into a barrier and spilled 200 litres of diesel.

The incident last Friday (July 18) caused delays for drivers.

The lorry hit a barrier along the hard shoulder in the roadworks on the north-bound carriageway between Junction 10A for the M54 and Junction 11 for Cannock.

No-one was believed to be badly injured. The inside lane was shut after the crash, which happened at about 5.30am.

Tailbacks stretched to Junction 10 for Walsall.

Knocked off bike

A CYCLIST was knocked off his bicycle in a collision with an Audi car in Penkridge. Police and paramedics were called to the scene in Pottal Pool Road at 7.15am last Thursday (July 17) but the 26-year-old cyclist was not seriously hurt.

£2,000 is raised for Amber by skydivers

THE mother of a schoolgirl who dreams of walking unaided has taken part in sponsored sky dive as part of a £60,000 fundraising appeal.

Five-year old Amber Porterfield has the condition spastic diplegic cerebral palsy and uses a walking frame and a wheelchair to get about.

Her mother Susannah, aged 33, and friends Jessica and Jayne Boothman and Melanie Irving took part in a 13,000-ft skydive at Langer Airfield, in Nottinghamshire.

Their efforts have raised £2,000 towards the appeal which now stands at £27,000.

Amber's family and school launched the drive to help cover the costs of her under-going surgery at a specialist centre, in Missouri, in the United States.

The Pelsall Village School pupil will travel to the Cerebral Palsy Centre at the St Louis Children's Hospital next year.

Susannah said: "It was fantastic. I was calm until they opened the plane door, but I knew I had to do it for Amber and it was amazing."

"We're still on cloud nine. More importantly we've raised £2,000 between us."

Volunteers lend a hand for log cabin

Sales adviser Kim Garbett, Day Service Officer Clive Gibson, field sales manager Julie Welch, service users and tradesmen

HOUSEBUILDER Lovell joined volunteers and service users to mark the opening of a log cabin on Cannock Chase.

A group of adults with learning difficulties will be among those using the cabin. Their learning is enhanced by the surroundings of The Chase.

Lovell, whose Monarch Park development lies just a couple of miles away off Elizabeth Road, supplied the windows and doors, while Staffordshire County Council provided the rest of the materials and Chasewater Innovation Centre also lent support. Volunteers, including a range of skilled tradesmen, built the cabin for free.

Boxes

Service users from Chase Day Service now gather twice a week at the cabin, from where they help to maintain trails, grow vegetables in a nearby polytunnel and make a range of hedgehog boxes, bird boxes and duck houses for use on the Chase.

Kim Garbett, sales adviser at Monarch Park, said: "It's great to see how well used and valuable the cabin is and we're glad to be part of the team that made it happen."

County Councillor Alan White, cabinet member for care, said: "The cabin is an important facility to help develop the skills of those with learning disabilities."

'Overdue' £6m council housing scheme backed

A £6 MILLION project to build the first council houses in Cannock for more than 25 years has been labelled a 'great development' that is long overdue.

Sixty-five properties owned by Cannock Chase Council will be built in Chadsmoor.

The development will be part of a wider scheme that will see 141 properties built in total.

They will replace 170 outdated flats on the Moss Road estate which will be demolished to make way for the new development.

The scheme was approved at a district council Cabinet meeting last Thursday (July 17).

Cannock east ward councillor Christine Mitchell said: "I welcome this. I'm looking forward to getting it going. It's going to be a great development."

Exciting

"I'm getting calls from residents living there who are concerned about the block of 170 flats. They are anxious to get things going."

Council leader George Adamson said it was an 'exciting' scheme and one that was long overdue.

At the meeting it emerged that members of the estate's Spectrum Residents Association had asked the council for a new community centre as part of the scheme.

However, Councillor Mitchell said there was no money for one.

She said: "Unfortunately

we could not go for it. I have warned the residents this could happen. They will be disappointed not to be getting a community centre."

In 2012 the Moss Road scheme was hit by delays as the council said it needed to rehouse residents from 170 flats before work could start on the new homes. Four flats are still occupied.

Under the scheme, play areas for children will also be created. Cannock Chase Council currently owns 5,500 properties, from one-bedroom flats and bungalows up to four-bedroom flats and houses. Improvements were made to other flats on the Moss Road estate in 2013, including communal and outside areas.

Housebuilder Keepmoat Homes will build the properties and work is due to start later in the year. Out of the 65 council houses, 30 will have two bedrooms, 27 will have three bedrooms and eight will have four bedrooms.

New fire board member

A LABOUR councillor currently suspended over allegations of benefit fraud has been replaced on Staffordshire Fire and Rescue Authority. Stafford North councillor Ian Hollinshead faces two counts of fiddling housing and council tax benefit. He will be replaced by Stafford Magistrates Court on July 30 and has been replaced by Councillor Sue Woodward, who represents Burntwood and is deputy leader of the party in Staffordshire.

Janet Johnson, with Debbie Griffiths, Housing Plus chief executive, Steve Winterflood, South Staffs Council chief executive, Jo Grainger, director of care and support, Dr Mary Griffiths, chairman of Housing Plus Group board and Jeremy Lefroy

Complex is ready for first residents

A NEW £14 million extra care scheme in Penkridge has been officially named and is preparing to welcome its first residents.

The Penric naming ceremony was attended by both Stafford MP Jeremy Lefroy and South Staffs Council chairman Janet Johnson.

The independent living complex comprises 82 one and two-bed apartments for 55 and overs or for younger people with a care and support need who have a connection to Penkridge.

A dedicated staff team is on hand 24 hours a day to provide support and to respond to emergencies.

The scheme features a licensed bar and restaurant, beauty salon and a gym. It has been designed and developed by the Housing Plus Group and will be managed by its care and support company Care Plus.

Councillor Johnson, a former vice chairman of Care Plus, said: "The facilities are absolutely wonderful." Scheme manager Jackie Owen said: "We're very excited about officially opening Penric."

One of the first residents will be Mary Briggs, aged 87, who cannot walk unaided since breaking her back in falls at her bungalow.

THE BEST OF PETER RHODES

IN theory, six penalty points for using a mobile phone while driving, as proposed by Whitehall last week, will be a huge deterrent. In real life, what sort of deterrent will it take to make the woman I saw the other day think twice? She was texting while driving - in a convertible with the hood down. Bold as brass which, strangely enough, was the colour of her hair.

AH, the wisdom of age. An 85-year-old granny in Brighton has become one of the oldest British drivers to be convicted, fined and banned for driving over the limit. Does she express remorse? Does she urge younger people to be warned by her example? Does she even apologise? Nah. Granny tells the world: "I can have one drink and it will have no effect on me whatsoever. I know what my limit is. I don't think I have done anything wrong." Honestly, the old people of today...

THANKS for your emails on things your moggies have dragged through the cat flap. Strangest so far are the "mole salad," which was delivered with a big bunch of grass, and a whole plaice.

WASN'T it pitiful, hearing the independence tendency on Any Questions (Radio 4) trying to convince Scots that if they voted to leave the UK, Whitehall would carry on awarding Royal Navy contracts to shipyards in Scotland, which would then be a foreign country? Can you really see any English politician campaigning under the banner "British jobs for Scottish workers"?

I HATE to be a party-pooper amid all the champagne corks popping and tears of joy over the vote to appoint women bishops. But, seriously, does anyone believe that men would have surrendered the Church of England if it were worth holding on to? Throughout history men have loved power. That is why the institutions that really matter and have real power, Parliament, the law, the armed forces, the City and most professions, are still firmly in male control. The Church has been handed over to women because in a Godless age it is dying on its feet, utterly irrelevant and has about as much power and influence on society as Jackanory. The ordaining of women bishops is the last dying gasp of a clapped-out organisation that has only a few years left. They know it. We know it.

ordaining of women bishops is the last dying gasp of a clapped-out organisation that has only a few years left. They know it. We know it.

BUT has anyone told the Devil? The General Synod has adopted a new form of baptism which makes no mention of him. This is frankly ungrateful. For centuries, the Devil was the Church's biggest fundraiser. Generations of our ancestors, frightened out of their skins, handed a tenth of their income over to the Church to save them from the Devil and his fiery domain. Now that the Church is admitting in effect that he never existed, can we have our money back? That's a few million groats and sovereigns, plus compound interest for, say, 1,000 years. A million quid for every citizen should just about cover it.

I HONESTLY don't know whether it's worthwhile, or even cost-effective, to spend millions of pounds of NHS money stapling up the stomachs of the obese, it just seems strange. The NHS is at its best when it prevents illness rather than dealing with the consequences. It has helped millions of people give up smoking or take blood-pressure medication before strokes or heart attacks occur. So where's the pro-active anti-obesity programme? It is hardly a mystery what causes this condition. Plague is transmitted by fleas. Colds are transmitted by a virus. Obesity is transmitted by chips.

Air cadets given use of derelict land

CADETS in Rugeley have a new place to practise their exercises and drills after Cannock Chase Council allowed them to use a piece of unused land in the town.

The council-owned land in Bow Street has been unused for many years, and many local people have called for it to be brought back into use.

The 1871 (Rugeley) Air Training Corps & Rugeley Army Cadet Force Detachment will now use the site for training purposes under a temporary licence from the district council.

The council has already cleared rubbish and debris from the site, and weeds have been removed, meaning it is now in a good state to be used by the Cadets.

Councillor Carl Bennett, Cannock

Chase Council's Environment Portfolio holder, said: "I'm delighted to see the land at Bow Street brought back into use and I'm very pleased at the arrangement with the local Cadets.

Cleared

"It's very good news to see the site cleared up and offered to the Cadets to use."

Flight Lieutenant Tom Grocott, Commanding Officer for 1871 (Rugeley) Squadron Air Training Corps, said: "Rugeley Air Cadets have been looking to use the land on Bow Street for a long time for outdoor training.

"I am pleased that an agreement has been made to enable us to do this. The use of the land will be of real benefit to our cadets."

Downpours put paid to Wakes festival again

By Charlotte Lilley

ORGNISERS were forced to cancel the Burntwood Wakes Festival because of torrential rain for the second time in three years.

The two-day event, which attracts around 10,000 people, was called off just hours before it was due because of a waterlogged pitch at the town's rugby club.

Now in its 10th year at the venue, organisers said they

Feedback in favour of major plans

DEVELOPERS behind plans for a designer outlet village in Cannock say public support is overwhelming.

Rioja Developments said the Mill Green project had received favourable backing.

The initial proposals were unveiled at South Staffordshire College's Cannock campus, with 316 people attending. Rioja says feedback has prompted 72 per cent support, with a further 16 per cent backing some of the plans.

A formal application will be lodged with Cannock Chase District Council towards the end of the year.

Plans are on show at Cannock Library, Manor Avenue and at Cannock Chase Council, in Beecroft Road. Feedback can be given at www.millgreenoutletvillage.co.uk/ or via the freepost feedback forms.

Rioja Developments managing director Giles Membrey said: "We are reviewing and taking on board all the comments.

"We will be maintaining our engagement with the local community and hope to unveil refined plans in the coming weeks."

had no choice but to cancel the event. It was due to be held on Saturday and Sunday.

Town council leader Councillor Diane Evans said she was 'devastated' and 'deeply disappointed' but said 'safety must come first.'

"I am absolutely devastated for the community of Burntwood because people always look forward to it," she added.

"This is the second time in three years we have had to cancel it and it is a shame for the people who were going to visit and for the acts that were going to perform.

"Unfortunately you can't rely on the British weather and everyone's safety must come first.

Recovered

"With the electrics and the metal stage it would not be safe to hold the festival."

Mrs Evans said this year's event was insured and costs would be recovered, although it will not be rescheduled.

She added: "We will refund the money people have paid to have stalls but two years ago some kind people told us to keep it for the following year's event.

"Unfortunately we cannot reschedule because many of the acts we have booked have other engagements.

"We will begin planning the next festival as soon as possible."

FA rules club is guilty in race row

A FOOTBALL club has been found guilty of racism following an FA investigation.

Littleton FC fans were found to have hurled racist abuse at Cheslyn Hay based Hawkins Sports FC players during a Cannock Chase League cup final in May attended by football legend John Barnes.

The FA charged the Huntington club with 'failing to ensure that players, officials or spectators conducted themselves in an orderly fashion, aggravated by racist and/or discriminatory language and/or behaviour'.

An FA hearing found the charge proven. Staffordshire FA football operations manager Adam Evans said: "On July 14 the Independent Anti-Discrimination Panel which was appointed by the Football Association heard the breach of FA Rule E20 against the Littleton FC.

"The commission found the charge proven and the written reasons will be published on the Football Association website in due course."

Hawkins have been charged with fielding ineligible players at the Premier Cup Final in May, which they won 3-2.

Lego movie is screened

CHILDREN can enjoy The Lego Movie at Cannock's CreateCinemaClub this weekend.

Organised by CreateChurch, the club is held on the last Saturday of the month from 10am to 12pm at the Electric Palace Picture House in Walsall Road.

Children of primary age and under can watch the computer-animated adventure film on July 26 with their parents and carers, at a cost of just 50p each to cover refreshments.

Tea, coffee and squash will be available at no extra cost. Filmgoers can also buy pop-orn and other snacks.

Summer bonanza

A FUNDRAISING group hosts its summer bonanza this weekend. Cannock Lions is staging the event at the Pied Piper pub, Pye Green Road, from noon to 6pm on Saturday, July 26. A host of attractions are planned with proceeds going to Lions charities.

Share of funding is on offer for groups

COMMUNITY groups are being urged to apply for a share of a £500,000 cashpot.

Police & Crime Commissioner Matthew Ellis is inviting groups in Cannock, Rugeley and Burntwood to submit a bid for money from his People Power Fund.

Mr Ellis is providing £500,000 in 2014/15 through the fund in the form of grants of between £100 and £3,000.

The window for the next round of applications for People Power Funding opens on August 1 and runs until September 14.

The fund supports locally-driven community safety activities.

Mr Ellis said: "I have significantly increased the funding that local areas in Staffordshire have to make their communities safer.

Examples of initiatives could range from 'Good Neighbour Schemes', the introduction of a local club or activity for young people or the installation of security measures at a community venue used by residents.

Mr Ellis said: "If you've got a good idea, the funding may be able to help you achieve it."

More details, including application forms, are available at www.staffordshire-pcc.gov.uk/fund

600 helped to quit habit

MORE than 600 people across Cannock Chase have successfully stubbed it out during the past 12 months with support from the NHS Time to Quit Team.

The stop-smoking service is part of the Staffordshire & Stoke-on-Trent Partnership NHS Trust. Many referrals came from working with Cannock Community Fire Station, Cannock and Rugeley Leisure Centres and Staffordshire Young People's Service, as well as at Rugeley Charter Fair.

In total, 603 people across the district kicked the habit with Time to Quit support.

Horn dance talk

JACK Brown will give a talk on the Abbots Bromley Horn Dance at a meeting next week. He will address Cheslyn Hay & District Local History Society on Thursday, July 31 from 7.30pm at the Salem in High Street. Admission is £1 including refreshments.

Tributes are paid to popular journalist

Emma Farmer

A HUGE popular sub-editor who worked at the Express & Star for 16 years has died.

Emma Farmer, aged 45, most recently worked on the Wolverhampton Magazine, a sister publication to the E&S and was previously the newspaper's features editor.

She died on July 10 having been taken seriously ill suddenly the week before while fishing with her partner, Stan Talbot, 63, to mark her birthday.

Mr Talbot, of Hospital Road, Hammerwich, said: "She opened her presents and we went up to Chorley Springs where we went fishing. She had just caught the biggest carp either of us had ever seen. She'd sometimes say 'come and help me with this' if it was a big one but this time she said she wasn't feeling well. Then she collapsed and that was that."

Miss Farmer had suffered a subarachnoid haemorrhage – a type of stroke caused by bleeding on the surface of the brain.

She underwent emergency surgery but nothing more could be done to save her.

Mr Talbot, a builder, paid tribute to his partner of two years. He said: "Emma loved life and she loved people. She would always try to help her colleagues. She loved them as well; they were her friends."

Miss Farmer grew up in East Riding in Yorkshire, one of two daughters born to parents

Colin and Pat. She joined the Express & Star in 1998, having previously worked for the Press Association.

Express & Star editor Keith Harrison said: "Emma was a hugely popular and talented member of the team and will be sadly missed."

Columnist Peter Rhodes, who worked with Emma for more than a decade, said: "She had an amazing eye for detail and was utterly dedicated to the job in hand."

"She had a wonderfully dry north country sense of humour."

The funeral will be at Streetly Crematorium, tomorrow (Friday), at 11.15am followed by a wake at Redmore Inn in Cannock Wood.

Parcel firm's treasurer took £7k from work fund

A PARCEL firm treasurer pocketed thousands of pounds destined for a work fund that donated to charities and social events for colleagues.

Sarah Jane Spearman was the social club treasurer at the depot in Cannock when she took money, amounting to around £7,000. She had worked for the firm for a decade.

Cannock magistrates heard the married mother, who had financial problems, made out cheques to herself and kept the money raised for good causes.

Mrs Katie Price, prosecuting, said the matter came light when colleagues checked the social fund's bank account. She said: "She took monies by writing cheques and retaining money collected from charity events, and money from a vending machine."

Club gifted life-saving equipment
LIFE-SAVING equipment has been donated to a leading amateur football club.

Wyrley Juniors and its 600 players have given their heartfelt thanks to the family-run First Response First Aid Ltd following its donation of the Automated External Defibrillator.

The Great Wyrley firm conducts a range of first aid and health and safety training courses nationwide. The AED will be housed at Wyrley Juniors' clubhouse at its Long Lane ground.

Lee Painter, training & quality manager for First Response, said: "Sudden cardiac arrest results in an estimated 100,000 deaths in the UK each year. If a defibrillator is available and used promptly, it significantly increases the chances of a victim surviving."

The company is offering free training to those involved with the club. Ideally one parent per team would be trained to use the equipment.

Club chairman Keith Hardy said: "We are extremely grateful to First Response."

Bills

She added rent and tax should have been paid for the vending machine but the bills were paid and the firm had to foot the £2,000 owed itself.

TNT also provided money for each employee to attend the Christmas party. Spearman inflated the numbers by 30 people and kept the extra £200.

There was an unpaid bill for a Blackpool coach trip. Spearman, of Dove Hollow, Hednesford, also kept £400 raised for Help for Heroes.

Spearman admitted one count of theft by employee between October 2012 and February 2014.

Mr Paul Jenkins, defending, said: "She got into a position of no return."

Spearman, sacked after a disciplinary hearing, was bailed ahead of sentencing yesterday (Wednesday).

Child star Ben to meet his surgeon

Ben Wilby, 12, has gone into acting after he was told he might never walk again after brain surgery

A CHILD actor is to meet the surgeon who saved his life.

Ben Wilby, aged 12, from Cannock, has starred in Nativity! and its sequel – with a third instalment coming up.

Doctors had feared he may never walk or talk and 10 years ago Ben underwent 10-hour brain surgery to remodel his skull, which was elongated, and relieve pressure on his brain.

Since then he has also won a string of dance trophies.

He started freestyle dancing at the age of four after joining Walsall Academy of Dance. Since Christmas he has been attending the Sylvia Young Theatre School in London during the week, travelling home to his family at weekends.

His big break came when he starred as Bob in comedy film Nativity! alongside Martin Freeman in 2009.

The sequel starring David Tennant followed, and he also has a part in Nativity 3, to be released in November.

Ben has also appeared in adverts for Harvester restaurant, and has a number of projects coming up. To mark the anniversary of his operation, Ben will visit Dr Steven Dover, the surgeon from Birmingham Children's Hospital who carried out the operation.

The family have not spoken to him since 2004 – and his mother Jill says they are looking forward to updating him on Ben's achievements.

Ben said: "I'm looking forward to seeing Dr Dover and I have lots to tell him."

IN MY VIEW

with Mark Andrews

IT seems rather sad that in the same month that we have celebrated all that is best about the Black Country, we also mourn the passing of one of the area's best loved sons.

Tommy Mundon was a true Black Country legend. One of the funniest men this area has ever known, he could turn the must humdrum of situations into one of his side-splitting monologues.

And while the likes of Bernard Manning went out of their way to shock audiences with their vulgarity, 'aer Tum' managed to make people laugh without ever uttering so much as a swear word.

Despite the plethora of Liverpudlian, Mancunian and cockney comedians on our screens, television producers reckoned his humour would not travel outside of the Black Country, and this tells us all we need to know about the prejudices which outsiders continue to hold against this area.

That Tommy Mundon never managed to make it onto a national stage was a great injustice to a great man. But an even bigger injustice to those who were denied the opportunity to see him at work.

And while we're on the subject, here are a few words from the great man:

"I've just landed a new job working in a ladies' sauna. I have to go in every now and again and top up the water while all the ladies are in their naked, and then afterwards I have to give them a massage."

"And would you believe it, £350 a week! Still, I think I can afford it."

SOME infant school headteachers have been complaining about how they are being forced to cut their teaching budgets because of a new Government ruling that all pupils, regardless of their parents' income, should be provided with free school meals up to the age of seven.

For a brief moment, I was almost sympathetic. Surely, schools are supposed to be places of learning, not free restaurants for middle-class kids?

And then one of these headmasters came out and explained what cutbacks were having to be made.

Staff numbers? Textbooks? "We've had to cancel an order for some tablets we were supposed to be getting," he said.

Now, making the bold assumption that he is not referring to the first aid kit, this headmaster is bemoaning the fact he will not be able to blow his school budget on iPad-type mini-computers.

Here's a revolutionary idea, Sir. Forget spending thousands of pounds on hi-tech toys, and instead focus on teaching them to read and write properly.

Martin Vickers in his vineyards with a Rondo vine

Halfpenny Green Vineyard, in Tom Lane, Bobbington

Raise a glass to vineyard's success

British wines are now taken seriously due to vineyards such as Halfpenny Green, says JAMES FISHER

ONCE sneered at across the globe, English wine is now being taken very seriously, with local wine-makers taking on – and beating – some of the most established names in the business.

Halfpenny Green Vineyard, in Bobbington, has seen first-hand how attitudes towards homegrown wines have changed during its 30-year history.

Clive Vickers, who co-owns the vineyard and makes the wine, said the resurgence was seeing homegrown wines taking on even those from the famous Champagne region.

Awards

"We've been growing grapes here for 30 years now and going back to the 1980s there was definitely a stigma attached to what we were doing," he said.

"But during the last two or three years, as a country, we have realised we can now make really decent wine, which is now winning awards on a regular basis."

"English wine growers across the country are now winning competitions, not just nationally but also internationally."

"Customers are also coming back on a regular basis and not just trying the brands as a one-off."

"Such is the interest we are no longer producing enough wine to deal with the demand."

The vineyard's most popular wines include a medium white, called Black Country Gold, as well as Penny Red, a 12 per cent, medium bodied red. There is even an English sparkling wine to rival the products of Champagne.

Halfpenny scooped a silver award at the Decanter World Wine Awards – the first British producer to ever to receive the honour – for its red wine, Rondo.

The vineyard has expanded from just half an acre to more than 30 acres over the years. It now produces between 50,000 and 70,000 bottles a year, depending on the weather. Halfpenny has even secured contracts to supply stores such as Waitrose.

out which varieties worked for us. For any new wine growers now all the information is out there for them," added Mr Vickers.

He said the warmer weather in England was also having an impact on the industry with certain grape varieties growing in Britain, which would not previously have survived.

"Whether it's down to climate change is up for debate but the reason there are more vineyards is because of the weather," he said.

"It's arguable whether the weather is improving because of all the rain we've had, which we have to try and deal with."

"But we've got varieties of grapes growing here that would not have survived a generation ago."

"One of the main changes we have seen is from the British public who are enjoying local produce of all varieties."

"People are more conscious of the miles food travels now and realise they can get a product just up the road, which is as good as one from Australia or Argentina."

Decades

The vineyard was originally the vision of Martin Vickers, who planted his first grapes three decades ago. Thirty years on it boasts 30 acres of vines, which are managed by Martin and crafted by his son, Clive.

Today Halfpenny, situated 250 feet above sea level, is one of the largest in the UK. For 23 years the vineyard has been awarded prizes for its wines, including international, national and regional recognition.

Numerous awards have come from the Mercian Vineyard Association and the UKVA, including in 2013 when it won silver for its Tom Hill and bronze for its Old Meadow, Penny Black and pink sparkling wines at the UKVA, and silver or its pink and white sparkling wines at the Mercian awards.

The family business now includes a shop, restaurant, deli and a tearoom.

WEEK IN POLITICS

with Daniel Wainwright

GEORGE Osborne's announcement that the £353 million "super" hospital for the Black Country can finally go ahead is a big one.

The much-maligned Private Finance Initiative has been in for an overhaul. Now here comes the hospital courtesy of PF2 – a private finance scheme that's a little less, well, private.

The old system gave us schools, hospitals and more but came with a pretty hefty mortgage in terms of long-term, regular payments from the public purse. The new arrangement is meant to be smaller and simpler. But while it's all been drawn up, the long wait for the super hospital in Smethwick went on. And on. And it's not over.

It's still subject to a business case being approved and there won't even be spades in the ground before 2016. What it does give the Chancellor, and the Tory party for that matter, is something to talk about in the run-up to the General Election.

The announcement was made at Rowley Regis Hospital, which we are told is going to play a greater role once the new acute hospital a few miles away is up and running. It could have been made at Sandwell General or City Hospitals instead, I suppose.

But then they're in safe Labour seats whereas Rowley Regis is in a key marginal battleground that the Tories have to hold on to. I'm sure that's not the reason for doing it there, though.

Talking of George Osborne, here's a little insight into what goes on in the run-up to getting an interview.

These days, whenever any prominent politician from any party comes to town, the spin doctors like to gather reporters in a little room. At some point during the visit the politician is brought in to see the waiting media who are allowed to ask one, or maybe two, questions each.

Before they arrive, a spin doctor asks the reporters if they can "maybe, agree on who is going to ask what so there's no doubling up." They then ask to know exactly what questions we are going to give the politician so they can go and prepare them.

Part of me thinks it's good that if you're asking about a very local matter it's helpful if the politician knows the background to give an informed response. But the other part of me thinks it's a damned liberty.

Most Most high-ranking politicians, past and present, are fairly adept at dealing with the curve ball question. I'm sure Mr Osborne would have coped.

Michael Gove, long before his unceremonious dumping as Education Secretary, had not been briefed for a question in Wolverhampton about the alleged rift between the Tories and Lib Dems over free school meals. And yet he answered quickly, confidently and professionally. His spin doctors were furious.

Vision for sprawling sports site revealed

THIS is the grand masterplan to turn the former Cannock Stadium site into a sprawling sports complex.

Millions of pounds will be ploughed into bringing the old sports arena in Cannock back to life after it has stood empty for the past six years.

This image represents the final vision for the ambitious transformation.

Included in the plans is a full sized grass football pitch, five smaller pitches, community allotments, children's play areas, an outdoor gym, BMX and skateboard area, community centre, multi-use games area and a full sized 3G sports pitch.

There will also be two car parks for 100 vehicles, a trim trail with 15 stations along the main pathways and CCTV will cover the main car park and community centre.

Stages

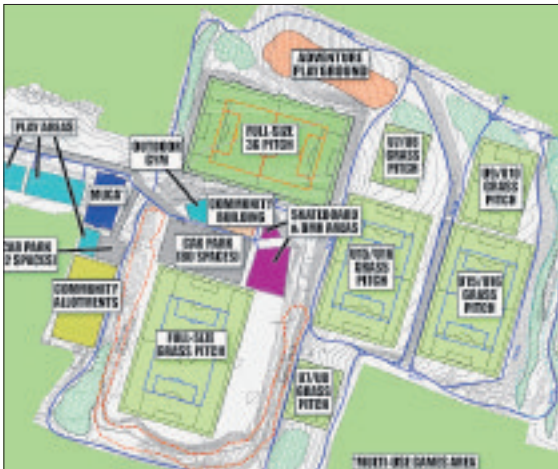

It was approved by Cannock Chase Council at a cabinet meeting last week. A full planning application will be submitted later this year.

The work is then likely to be carried out in two stages with funding streams sought by council bosses.

Cannock Stadium closed in 2008. The Pye Green stadium site was originally earmarked for housing but plans were scrapped in 2012 when the council announced the site would instead be used for sport and leisure again.

More than 400 responded to a public consultation over what people wanted at the site. Football pitches and allotments were favoured options.

A feasibility study was launched and carried out by Continuum Sport and Leisure Ltd to identify what facilities could be added. That study has now been completed and the preferred options included in the masterplan.

This image shows how the stadium site will look following its transformation

Work may start next year

WORK to bring the former Cannock Stadium site back to life could start early next year.

The site has stood empty for six years and council bosses agreed to go ahead with the ambitious scheme last Thursday (July 17).

Culture boss Councillor Christine Mitchell said: "We all know the history of Cannock Stadium and what we went through to stop houses being built there."

She said she hoped the work would begin early next year. Planning member Gordon Alcott said the revamp had been promised for years.

The project is being part funded using Section 106 money from Asda, it was finally agreed last year.

Bosses handed over £500,000 as part of the conditions attached to its Avon Road store nine years ago.

Council leader George Adamson said: "The Asda money was saved and will be spent on the stadium which is where it should be spent."

8 Long may freedom be exercised

The Chronicle Thursday, July 24, 2014

RECENTLY a very annoyed Royal Engineer said I had got my facts wrong about who was awarded the Freedom of Cannock Chase first.

I am sorry that an ex-serviceman has been upset. However, I was aware the Engineers had been awarded the Freedom of Cannock in 1952 by the old Urban District Council.

The award to the Staffords & the Regimental association was the first given by Cannock Chase District Council, a different council. Cannock Chase has never awarded a Freedom before.

The Engineers did exercise their right to march through Cannock in 2001, and quite rightly too.

I hope this sets the record straight and long may the Engineers, the Staffords (now the Mercians) and the Staffordshire Regimental Association exercise their rights to march through Cannock.

Leader, Cannock Chase Council

Homophobia issue won't resolve itself

WHY is not enough being done to stop homophobia in football?

Both the government, football clubs and anti-discrimination organisations, eg Kick It Out, have numerous pledges to prevent the issue of homophobia affecting the beautiful game – both in the stands and on the pitch – and claim that tactics to combat this type of discrimination are working. However, I have attended many local games and encountered a lot of vocal fans often shouting homophobic abuse at players. Yet, these perpetrators receive no repercussions for it. If this was racial abuse, I'd imagine both stewards and the football club itself would take a much more harsher stance. However, when it comes to homophobia, the stewards and the football clubs seem to be reluctant to take any action.

As a result, gay footballers are struggling to fit into the hostile climate that greets them. The sad case of Justin Fashanu is a prime example. I feel that both the government and football clubs need to look into the severity of homophobia in football, and treat it on par with other types of bigotries, such as racism and sexism. They are being far too passive with regards to homophobia in the stands and on the pitch, and seem to treat it as an issue that will gradually resolve itself. It won't. Organisations also need to up their campaigns against prejudice as a whole, with special mention to growing racism against Asian football players.

MATT PATTINSON, Hednesford

Not even Thatcher could win

RE: Amanda Milling being chosen as the Conservative Parliamentary candidate for Cannock Chase.

The leader of Cannock Chase Tories said that he wanted a local candidate for the next General Election. Unfortunately for him the Westminster elite forced his branch to accept an all female list and they have now been landed with someone from Lancashire who knows little of our area.

Tory HQ must think the electorate is stupid. After all the shenanigans amongst Cannock Conservatives they surely realise that even if they could resurrect Maggie Thatcher as a candidate they would not win Cannock Chase in 2015.

This lady is moving home to fight the seat and yet the only way Tory voters will keep Labour out is to vote UKIP. One could laugh if it was not so bizarre.

GRAHAME WIGGIN
UKIP Cannock Chase Prospective Parliamentary Candidate

Times to change the rules on defections

YET again an elected candidate has made a mockery of the system by defecting to another party.

Just 53 days into his term of office David Mackintosh, Wolverhampton, Penn ward, has decided UKIP policies are too narrow and Conservatives have more to offer. It is time to bring this practice to an end.

He, and others contemplating changing allegiance, should have the integrity to resign and stand for re-election until such time the rules are changed to make it compulsory.

It is no wonder voters view politics with disdain.

Cheers for efforts to clear up dog mess

THREE cheers for Penkridge Council for their efforts to get dog owners to clean up their mess, from the report in this newspaper on July 17.

It is a pity that Cannock Chase Council does not take the same view. They still refuse to take positive action either to make signs more visible or to actually ban dogs from Stile Cop Cemetery, to which my previous letter refers.

I have been in dispute with the council for some time since I discovered two bags of dog mess near to my wife's grave. Their only action was to place two very small signs, that are hardly visible warning dog owners of the consequences.

They have ignored all subsequent complaints.

Fine threat to salon owner in banner row

Jude Roberts, who has been ordered by the council to take down her banner advertising Francesco Group in Rugeley

A SALON owner was threatened with prosecution after putting up a huge banner to advertise her business.

Jude Roberts paid £500 to advertise the Francesco Group hair salon in Rugeley after claiming long-running roadworks were hitting her profits.

The 47-year-old has owned the salon for the past eight years and says the business is suffering as a result of roadworks in Horse Fair.

The banner was placed on a fence at the entrance of Tesco car park in Power Station Road. But bosses at Cannock Chase District Council say she did not have planning consent and warned her she faced a £2,500 fine if it was not taken down.

She said: "Tesco was offering free publicity to local businesses so I decided to take them up on the offer."

"I put it on the fence at the entrance to the car park so everyone could see it. I got a letter from the council a couple of days later saying I wasn't allowed to put my banner there because I didn't have planning permission but I didn't know that I needed it."

The roadworks are scheduled to be completed by the end of August and the road is expected to be in full working order by September 1.

Miss Roberts added: "We are all fighting to keep afloat, that is why I took Tesco on their idea. It costs £300 to apply for permission and even then there's no chance I will get it."

The council said it had received a complaint from a member of the public about the unauthorised banner.

Councillor Gordon Alcott, portfolio leader for planning and economic development, said: "Businesses that want to put up banners in public places need to apply to the council for advertising consent."

Cloudy2Clear Windows - Service With A Smile!

It's been a crazy few months for Cloudy2Clear Windows. The company which specialises in repairing windows which are steamed up, broken or damaged by replacing the panes - not the frames has grown rapidly as homeowners take advantage of their services.

Managing Director Brian Stanley feels that it's all about service. "Our product is simple. If your double glazing is misted up we can replace the glass at a fraction of the cost of a new window, in any type of frame, and with a new 5 year guarantee. But it's not just about saving people money, although that obviously helps. Many tradespeople have struggled since last year and I honestly feel that during the good times a minority perhaps didn't focus on customer care as much as they should have done."

We make sure we turn up when we say we will, do the job the customer requires and leave their house as clean as a whistle. I often get comments back from customers on how they really didn't expect that sort of service which, in a way, is very sad for the service industry as a whole."

Cloudy2Clear service Wolverhampton and the surrounding area and Brian is finding that his approach is a major factor in his success. "The truth is that it's not just the personal satisfaction that I get from doing a good job but also it makes good business sense. I get a huge amount of business from friends and family of people I've done work for, which just goes to show how much a little bit of effort is appreciated."

So, if your windows are steamed up, broken or damaged give Brian a call for a free quotation on 0800 61 21 118 and he'll be happy to help!

Couple toast 60 years of marriage

Diamond couple Doreen and George Connelly

A GREAT Wyrley couple have offered a piece of advice as they celebrate their diamond wedding anniversary: 'Don't go to bed angry'.

Doreen and George Connelly, of Hilton Lane, married on July 10 1954. They had courted for six years after meeting on the factory floor at a spring washer factory in Brick Kiln Street, Wolverhampton.

Mrs Connelly, now aged 82, said: "I was only 16 and George was 15. When we got enough money together we got married at Bushbury Church and it was a really lovely day." Over the years Mr Connelly, 81, worked in factories across the Black Country. Mrs Connelly worked at the Wolverhampton Dye Casting company.

The couple on their wedding day in 1954 in Bushbury

The couple have four children, Annette, who celebrated her 59th birthday on the couple's anniversary, Glen, aged 54, Debbie, 50 and Joanne, 44. They also have eight grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

The couple celebrated with a barbecue in their garden joined by 100 friends and family. They received a card from the Queen and from their local MP Gavin Williamson.

Library plan talks start

THOUSANDS of people are expected to take part in a consultation over plans for volunteers to run some libraries in Staffordshire.

A total of 24 of the county's 43 libraries could be run by community organisations. These would save £1.3 million over the course of three years, leaving jobs at risk.

Police and health workers could also be invited to share the buildings.

The county council insists there are no plans to close buildings. Those classed as 'local' would be taken over by the community.

The plans were given the go-ahead last month and a 12-week consultation has begun. People can have their say online, by post, or at one of 47 face-to-face sessions.

Mike Lawrence, Staffordshire County Council's cabinet member for communities and localism, said: "Over the next 12 weeks we are visiting every library in the county at least once to talk to people about our ideas and see what they want.

"With online and postal comments I think thousands of people will have their say.

"It's crucial we hear from library users and non-users alike, as well as anyone who lives, works or studies in Staffordshire.

"We think this is a good way to safeguard our libraries, but we want to know people's thoughts."

Bat myths dispelled by speaker

Burntwood WI

THE singing of Jerusalem opened the last meeting before Wendy Dunn, standing in for Judith, gave the minutes of the last meeting.

Wine was given by Sheila Griffiths to celebrate her Diamond Wedding Anniversary. The barbecue at the home of Ann and David Simpson was a huge success and thanks were given to Robinsons the butchers for the loan of their marquee, the chefs who cooked everything so well and to the hosts. There was a raffle on the night and the proceeds of £70 were to be given to the Stephen Sutton Teenage Cancer Trust.

There is a trip to the Lichfield Garrick in November to see Oliver! and two coach trips later in the year, to Jinney Ring Craft Centre, Worcester and Waddesdon Manor, Oxford.

Members have been asked to bring any items relating to the First World War to display or any stories they can retell from their family.

Speaker was Kevin Reynolds 'dispelling the myths about bats'. He explained what a bat is, how they live, and different species.

The UK has about 18 different species of which 10 can be found in Staffordshire. Numbers are decreasing dramatically mainly because their natural habitat is disappearing and the use of chemicals generally.

The competition for a photograph of a building with a chimney was won by Diana Elston.

No detail spared as murder on agenda

Speaker Ian Bott, president Janis Lomas and Lakhwinder Thompson

CANNOCK Soroptimists heard about Black Country Murders from speaker Ian Bott at their last meeting.

Ian used pictures of places and people to illustrate his talk of murders taking place between 1902 and 1954 in Tipton, Lye, Bilston and Walsall. The murders were all domestic incidents and he didn't spare any of the gory details.

In all cases the murderer was caught, tried and sentenced within 12 months of the crime, sentence ranging from 12 years imprisonment to hanging at Winson Green Prison. President Janis Lomas - a historian herself - thanked Ian for his talk.

The club's next speaker meeting will be on August 19 when Margaret Smallman will give a talk on Memories of a Corner Shop. SI Cannock meet at The Barns, Huntingdon. Their focus for this, their Diamond Anniversary year, is the project Violence Against Women - Stop it Now - and some fundraising events will support Pathway and Staffordshire Women's Aid.

The club is also looking at ways of raising awareness with young women about endometriosis and Dr Sue Cartledge will give a presentation on July 29.

Cathedral guide gives talk

THE June meeting featured an interesting illustrated talk by Lichfield Cathedral guide Keith Hardwick.

The ladies thoroughly enjoyed his visit and learned a great deal of the history of Lichfield Cathedral from its very beginnings.

The July meeting was a cream tea and a fundraiser to further the good work Shirley has done in raising money through her sponsored walk in the Lake District for Kidney Research.

At the national AGM in Cardiff, national chairman Margaret Key and the Lord Mayor of Cardiff opened proceedings and guests were admirably entertained by Matthew Collins, from the BBC Travel Show and the Pontarddulais Male Choir.

The results of the debates were 'no' to the lowering of the voting age to 16-year-olds and 'yes' to the enforcement of legislation concerning FGM.

Council's funding cuts called a disgrace

THE leader of Cannock Chase Council has described multi-million pound county council cuts to services for the elderly and vulnerable as a disgrace.

The County wants to slash £6m from its budget by cutting funding to dozens of service providers. Last ditch attempts to stop the move failed last week.

Opposition councillors forced bosses to 'call in' the decision on cuts to three of the worst-hit service providers but the moves failed.

Councillor George Adamson, leader of Cannock Chase, which has lost its funding to provide community alarms, said: "This is a disgrace. These cuts will affect the most vulnerable people in our communities."

Help

"Some of this money helps them to live independently in their own homes. Without this help, many will end up in hospital or in care."

Among the service providers affected are the Bromford Housing Association, mental health service provider Rethink and Community Alarms, which supplies pendant alarms to pensioners living alone. One Cannock service received a letter to say their community alarm system would no longer be funded. He said: "I feel like the county council have just gone ahead with this without asking service users for their thoughts."

By Marion Brennan

Cabinet member for care Alan White said: "The review of these contracts doesn't mean we are pulling out of supporting residents."

"Instead of looking at areas such as mental health, homelessness, addiction or repeat offending in isolation, we want to offer a joined-up, county-wide approach which focuses more on preventing people falling into crisis and less on long-term dependence on services."

Riders in London to Paris fundraiser

Ian Kendrick, Roger Dicken and Neil Thrupp on their bikes for the London to Paris charity cycle

THREE friends rode from London to Paris to raise money for charity. The members of Cannock Conservative Club raised £500 after tackling the 270-mile journey.

It took them four days – and the fundraisers avoided the problem of booking accommodation by getting a friend, Roger Dicken, to follow them in a camper van.

Ian Kendrick, his son Darren and Neil Thrupp raised the cash for St Giles Hospice. They have previously cycled from Morecambe to Bridlington and London to Stratford and have also completed a number of 70-mile charity events.

But Ian, aged 52, admits this latest ride was among the toughest yet. They started in Westminster before getting the ferry from Dover to Calais, and then cycling to Paris.

Ian, manager of the Conservative Club in High Green, said: "I was looking forward to it but I didn't know what we were going to encounter."

"But we got through it and we are already planning where we are going to go next year."

Slimline tonic as Jane sees weight drop off

A COOK saw her weight to balloon to 22 stones as she didn't fancy getting back into the kitchen when home from work.

Jane Mason would instead opt for takeaway meals in front of the television.

But while watching a programme about obesity, Jane realised that with her high blood pressure she was living on borrowed time. And that finally gave her the kickstart she needed.

Less than two years later she has shed half her body weight, weighing in at 11 and a half stone.

Jane, aged 45, said: "I used to watch a lot of problems about obesity which got me thinking about my own health because I was the same size as some of these people on TV."

"I had high blood pressure so I started attending sessions once a week at Weight Watchers in September 2012. At first I was a bit wary because I had tried various groups to shift the weight before and none of them had worked."

Confidence

"At my heaviest I was really depressed and I hated myself but my leader Beverley Longsdon, was absolutely brilliant and she really boosted my confidence which helped me lose the pounds."

Jane, a cook at Burntwood Leisure Centre, used to live on takeaways of fish and chips and Chinese and convenience food such as frozen pizzas.

Now she has turned her life around and enjoys eating fruit and vegetables, wholesome bread and brown rice and pasta.

She also exercises by going for a walk every day and completing a three-mile trek each week.

"I struggled to walk up the stairs

Jane Mason in 2009 before she lost 10 and a half stones in weight

Slender Jane, aged 45, is now a shadow of her former self before and I would gorge on bad food as a way of comforting myself for how I felt," she said.

"My diet and lifestyle has changed for the better. I feel a lot healthier and I've noticed a change in my mood."

Jane, of March End Road, Willenhall, now wants to lose a further half a stone before reaching her target weight. She said she could not have shed the pounds without the support of her family.

"When I look in the mirror I can't believe my eyes because it doesn't look like me staring back," she said.

Weight Watchers leader Beverley said: "Jane is an example to anyone trying to lose weight because she has followed my advice and completely changed her lifestyle."

Scheme to create new interchange

A PROJECT to boost Cannock Chase's connectivity and reduce the number of HGVs on the road has been approved.

The Greater Birmingham & Solihull Local Enterprise Partnership is to receive £357.3 million from the Local Growth Fund to help provide up to 19,000 jobs.

Government approval will see £1.3m of Growth Deal funding to create a new road-rail interchange facility with rail sidings and container handling cranes on the Chase Line, creating 50 jobs and significantly decreasing the number of HGVs using the road network.

Supercars in need for speed on M6 Toll

A TOUCH of Hollywood glamor was brought to the M6 Toll in Staffordshire as luxury sports cars worth millions of pounds were given a police escort along the busy route.

The convoy made its way through Cannock, Burntwood and Norton Canes to promote the DVD release of the hit speed film Need for Speed. The convoy included a Ferrari F40 formerly owned by Rod Stewart and valued at more than £750,000, a McLaren P1, a Lamborghini Aventador, a rare Ford GT 200, a Porsche and a BAC Mono driven by Oliver Webb, who has just achieved a podium finish at Le Mans.

The six top of the range models were on a national tour ahead of this week's release on DVD and Blu-Ray of the movie.

The drivers at the wheel were taking part in a two-day run from Liverpool to London via Manchester that will see the winner chosen by film fans using social network.

Last Wednesday it rolled through the pay booths on the toll road at about 5.30pm.

Fans were voting on Twitter for the car they wanted to be crowned as the eventual winner of the 'Need for Speed Convoy'. The winner was revealed in London during the final leg of the tour on Friday with a gathering of up to 30 luxury cars in the same place.

Need for Speed is a 3D film starring Aaron Paul as street racer Tobey Marshall and Dominic Cooper as rival racer Dino Brewster. It hit the big screen earlier this year and tells the story of how the hero Marshall sets off to race cross-country to avenge his friend's death at the hands of Brewster.

End strikes, says fire chief in £7,000 bonus

A FIRE service chief was awarded a £7,000 bonus and then urged his crews to stop striking over their own pay disputes.

Staffordshire Fire & Rescue Authority approved the payment to Chief Fire Officer Peter Dartford at a behind-closed-doors meeting.

A day later, the £144,000-a-year boss said he did not support strike action over ongoing pension disputes with the Government.

Fire Brigades Union members have been undertaking rounds of industrial action since last September.

Fire and Rescue Authority member Councillor Frank Chapman criticised the payment made to Mr Dartford and the fact it was made in secret.

He said: "As a member of the fire authority I wish to place on record that I was not in favour of this decision as I consider it to be inappropriate in the present economic circumstances and insensitive in light of the current industrial action within the fire service."

Advancing

The bonus was paid in recognition of Mr Dartford's 'work in raising the profile of the service externally, ensuring the service remains a safe organisation to work for whilst it is modernising, and advancing the role of the service in partnership working'.

A day after the bonus was approved, Mr Dartford told the Chronicle's sister paper, the Express & Star: "I do understand that our firefighters have got worries about the future of their pensions and how they are going to sustain their retirement."

"But I do not believe striking is the way to resolve the dispute."

Andy Dennis, regional secretary of the Fire Brigades Union, said: "We find this sort of fat cat pay rise entirely deplorable when at the same time our members are facing savage cuts to their pay and pensions. It is no surprise Mr Dartford is against strikes when he can secure a better deal for himself behind closed doors in secrecy."

Awards for unsung heroes

Council Leader Brian Edwards, Rex Roberts, and current chairman Councillor Janet Johnson promote the awards.

UNSUNG heroes will be celebrated to mark the 40th anniversary of South Staffs Council.

The authority, formed in 1974 after a merger with Cannock Rural District and Seisdon Rural District councils, is launching the South Staffordshire Community Awards.

They aim to recognise, celebrate and reward the achievements of local people and the contribution they make to the district. In total 10 awards will be up for grabs ranging from Young Volunteer Award through to a Lifetime Achievement.

Launching the awards, the council's first chairman Rex Roberts said: "Being able to play a part in the council's 40th anniversary celebrations is marvellous."

Current chairman Councillor Janet Johnson said: "I feel privileged to be chairman in the council's 40th year, and to see the launch of the Community Awards which celebrate the very lifeblood of South Staffordshire - our communities."

Scheme on free childcare extended

THOUSANDS of parents of two-year-olds are getting the chance to retrain or get back to work thanks to a childcare scheme launched by Staffordshire County Council.

The 'Think 2' free childcare scheme was initiated last September.

Following a successful launch, the scheme, which provides 15-hours free childcare per week during term time, has now been extended to parents who receive Working Tax Credits and whose household income is below £16,190.

Anyone meeting the benefits criteria for free school meal eligibility also qualify.

Councillor Mike Lawrence, cabinet member for children, said: "We have been incredibly pleased with the scheme so far and now have over 1,000 parents benefiting from the free childcare and freeing up time to retrain or find a job."

The free 15 hours childcare is provided by local nurseries, child minders or pre-schools and is available across the county. People will be able to access the childcare either during school term-time over 38 weeks, or spread over the year if the childcare provider has this flexibility.

The free places are now available for eligible children on the term following their second birthday.

To apply or check criteria and eligibility visit www.staffordshire.gov.uk/think2 or call 0300 111 8007.

Call goes out for volunteer life-savers

Victoria Tufail, front, Burntwood CFR Scheme co-ordinator
Eddie Malpass, Sarah Giles, Donna Rushton and Shaun Mayo VOLUNTEERS are being sought to train up and help the ambulance service by responding first to medical emergencies. Community First Responders are needed in the areas of Burntwood, Penkridge, Rugeley and Lichfield.

The CFRs are groups of volunteers who quickly respond to emergencies on behalf of West Midlands Ambulance Service, prior to the arrival of paramedics.

They are trained by the ambulance service and can be called upon to attend to patients suffering cardiac arrest, or from strokes, falls and breathing problems.

There are currently 263 CFRs, some working with the 32 groups operating within the county. CFR schemes are funded by charitable donations.

The West Midlands Ambulance Service is appealing for anyone who wants to take on the role to get in touch.

Victoria Tufail, community response manager said:
"CFRs are vital in rural communities and it is without doubt that thanks to their efforts, dedication and actions, lives have been saved."

Anyone interested must be aged 18 to 70, have a current driving licence, be physically fit and be able to provide their time. Email victoria.tufail@wmas.nhs.uk

Reduction in jobless figures is welcomed

CHASE MP Aidan Burley has welcomed latest figures which show the number of people out of work in Staffordshire has fallen again.

Statistics for last month show the jobless number throughout the county dropped by 795 to 7,630, a fall of 1.4 per cent of the working population.

The number claiming Jobseekers' Allowance in Can-nock Chase fell by 154 to 1,144, a drop of 1.8 per cent. The number of jobless in South Staffordshire also saw a decrease of 67 to 1,040, representing a 1.5 per cent fall.

In Stafford the number fell by 115 to 906, and in Lichfield those out of work dropped by 122 to 651, both 1.1 per cent reductions.

Election

Nationally, unemployment has had its largest annual fall since 1995. The number of people without jobs in the UK has fallen by 121,000 to 2.12 million in the three months to June.

Nearly 1.4m of the jobs created since the election have been full-time, more than 75 per cent of the total rise in employment.

The proportion of women in work has hit a record high of 68.1 per cent. The number out of work in Can-nock Chase represents 2.3 per cent of the population aged 16 to 64 and is 154 fewer than in May this year.

The figures were released by the Office of National Statistics.

Mr Burley said: "These strong jobs numbers are another clear sign that this Government's long-term economic plan is working."

"More people have the security of work than ever before, the number of people looking for a job is down this year by the biggest amount since 1995, and the number of young people relying on benefits has had its biggest annual fall since 1997."

Love lasts for diamond couple

Loving couple Dolly and Bert Littlewood of Hazel Slade

GROWING up he was her brother's best friend. But fast forward more than six decades and Bert and Dolly Littlewood are an inseparable pair, celebrating 60 years of marriage.

The couple, of Hazel Slade, celebrated their diamond anniversary with a meal before going on holiday to the Isle of Wight.

Mr Littlewood was a baker and Mrs Littlewood worked for a launderette.

The pair, both 81, grew up in Smethwick and married in

Dolly and Bert Littlewood on their big day the town's St Stephen's Church. They moved to Cannock with their two sons Stephen and Mark.

Mrs Littlewood said: "He was my brother's friend so was always around our family's house."

"That's how we got to know each other and we were always doing this, that and other when one day he said something like 'I think it's about time we got married'."

They have lived happily together ever since and Mrs Littlewood said: "We love each other very much. It is as simple as that."

Spitting fines approved

COUNCIL chiefs have agreed to hand out on the spot fines to people caught spitting in the street in Cannock Chase.

Offenders will find themselves £50 lighter after the move was unanimously agreed by members of Cannock Chase Council's cabinet last week.

Environmental health officers will be briefed on the measure - which will work in the same way as fixed penalty notices are given for littering or dog fouling.

The rule will come into force on September 1. At last week's meeting, environment chief Councillor Carl Bennett said: "It offers significant benefits to the council and the offender."

"In relation to spitting, unless it rains you don't get rid of it. I want people to respect the area of Cannock."

Respect

"Visitors to the area don't want to see blobs of spit all over the place."

"I don't want anyone to be fined but I want people to respect where they live. This is definitely enforceable as long as the officers are briefed properly. People have said it's about time spitting is stopped."

Council leader George Adamson said there was 'massive support' for the move.

Only a handful of local authorities across the UK have brought in the legislation since an original nationwide ban which then carried a £5 fine was rescinded by the government in 1992.

Former police officer and Cannock West Councillor Paul Snape had said he believed the idea was 'unenforceable'.

Travellers pitch up next to football ground

Caravans parked up in Keys Park Road

Travellers next to Hednesford Town FC

TRAVELLERS have moved onto land next to Hednesford Town FC. Around six caravans pulled onto the privately-owned site next to the Keys Park ground at the weekend.

Councillors were visiting the camp this week to try to move the group on.

Ward councillor Alan Pearson said: "I believe the land next to the ground is private so it may not be as easy to move the travellers on as we would like."

"It's very awkward for the police to get these people off the land and it may be that they came overnight when no-one was watching, but I am sure the football club will be keen for them to move. It was only last month that travellers moved onto Cannock Stadium but I am not sure if these are part of the same group."

Around 50 caravans moved onto the former stadium site in June but they were forced to leave by the council, which served an enforcement notice.

It is thought they were the same group that parked up on a field off Bee Lane in Fordhouses, Wolverhampton, next to Elston Hall Primary School.

No one from Hednesford Town FC was available for comment.

Food waste powers store

A CANNOCK supermarket will be the first retail outlet in the UK to come off the National Grid and be powered by food waste alone in a groundbreaking project.

Sainsbury's and waste recycling company Biffa have been working on new technology to allow the Orbital Way store to run on electricity solely generated from the anaerobic digestion chemical reaction.

Sainsbury's is already the UK's largest retail user of anaerobic digestion, generating enough electricity to power

2,500 homes each year. The facility, run by Biffa, turns food waste into bio methane gas, which is then used to generate electricity.

Now, a one-and-a-half kilometre cable has been installed, linking the plant to the nearby superstore.

Recycled

This allows Sainsbury's to receive electricity directly from the plant. Work started on the project on Monday.

Sainsbury's says all general waste from stores is recycled or turned into fuel. Surplus food that its charity partners are unable to use is processed into animal feed for farmers or used to generate energy through anaerobic digestion.

Paul Crewe, Sainsbury's head of sustainability, said: "We send absolutely no waste to landfill so we're delighted to be the first business ever to make use of this link-up technology, allowing our Cannock store to be powered entirely by our food waste."

Jeff Anderson, managing director of Biffa said: "By converting food waste to renewable energy demonstrates our commitment to innovation and the environment."

Aiming to make best decisions for patients

IN April last year family doctors became the local leaders of the NHS. They were handed control of the purse strings and the responsibility to make decisions about the future of NHS services.

The new Clinical Commissioning Groups (CCGs) were formed. It was the biggest shake up the NHS had seen and part of a drive to put clinicians at the heart of decisions because they are best placed to understand the health needs of their patients.

Although an exciting opportunity for clinicians to take a leading role in the planning and development of local services, it comes when the NHS is facing unprecedented pressure.

People are living longer with more complex conditions and sometimes making lifestyle choices that lead to an increase in conditions such as obesity or cancer and rising healthcare costs.

Coinciding with a year-on-year reduction in the resources allocated to clinical commissioning groups, the challenge for the decision-makers trying to manage patient need is huge.

Challenges

The majority of money that the NHS has to spend is also currently spent on hospital care rather than keeping people well and preventing them from needing hospital care in the first place.

Doing nothing is not an option – the NHS cannot meet future challenges without change, but the CCG wants to make sure that we take the people of Cannock Chase on that journey with us – working alongside us to make the best decisions for the local population.

The start of that process is the development of an operational plan, which identifies and sets out the direction of travel for the CCG over the next five years. The vision is to shift the focus more on to prevention and have a system that enables patients to be as healthy as they can be with the knowledge and confidence that services are available for intervention, support and guidance if and when they need it.

UPDATE FROM THE CCG

DR Johnny McMahon is chairman of Cannock Chase CCG. He has 24 years of clinical experience, including 14 years as a partner in a large teaching practice in Northamptonshire, where he became a board member involved in the establishment of Nene Commissioning.

He became a partner at the Colliery Practice, Cannock in October 2010 and joined Newhall Street Surgery in February 2014. Since 2012, he has sat on the Cannock board, becoming chairman in April 2013.

The CCG wants to better understand and continue to reduce the causes of people being admitted to hospital unexpectedly and do the same for poor health outcomes and poor quality of care. It also wants to improve patient experiences of services and to achieve a far greater equality of health outcomes.

In delivering the vision, the CCG must rebalance the money it spends so the services it commissions meet the needs of the local population, are clinically safe and sustainable. This cannot be delivered without changes being made but by involving patients in the design of new services, the CCG can make sure the changes it makes are appropriate and responsive to patient need.

As with any period of transition, effective communication is key. This is why the CCG is determined to improve its links with patients and the public. Over the coming months the CCG wants to have an honest debate with people about the future of services, even though some of the conversations that need to be had will be difficult.

The CCG wants a two-way flow of information and has already introduced ways for people to get engaged.

We are actively trying to increase and strengthen the channels available so that co-production of services becomes the norm, awareness of the right services to use at the right time is high and patients and the public become active partners in the planning, development and delivery of future services.

Lights out to mark Great War centenary

RESIDENTS across Cannock Chase are being urged to take part in a special 'Lights out' event to mark the 100th anniversary of Britain entering the First World War.

Cannock Chase Council leader George Adamson is urging the community to get involved.

August 4 marks the centenary date – with fighting continuing until November 11, 1918, Armistice Day.

"The lamps are going out all over Europe, we shall not see them lit again in our lifetime," said Sir Edward Grey, the then Foreign Secretary on the eve of Britain officially entering the conflict.

Exactly 100 years later, the Royal British Legion is encouraging everyone in the UK to turn off their lights between 10 and 11pm – leaving only a single light or candle for this symbolic act of reflection and hope.

Candles

On that night, more than a million Commonwealth Service personnel who lost their lives in the First World War will be remembered. The Royal British Legion hopes to see a million candles lit across the UK to remember each and every one of those servicemen and women who gave their lives.

Councillor Adamson said: "The Lights Out event is a wonderful way to mark the centenary of Britain entering the First World War.

"I hope people across the district will take part by turning off their lights at home and lighting a candle, or by attending one of the events that are being organised."

The district's centenary commemorations get under way on Saturday, August 2, with Great War marches and memorial services in Cannock, Rugeley and Hednesford town centres.

A memorial service will take place in each town centre. Music will be provided by Rugeley Power Station Brass Band and Lichfield Air Cadets Band. Marches take place in Cannock between 10.30am and 11.30am, moving on to Hednesford from 1.30-2.30pm and in Rugeley between 3.30 and 4.30pm.

Organisations wishing to take part should call Katie McBey on 07971 667218.

The day will end with a special Centenary Concert at the Prince of Wales Centre in Church Street, Cannock, at 7pm with music from the West Midlands Fire Brigade Band. Tickets are £12 on 01543 578762. This event will include a 'Lights Out' minute's silence, when lights will be switched off and candles lit.

Cannock Chase Council is working with leisure and culture partner WLCT on a programme of events and commemorations that will stretch right through to 2018. As part of this, residents have been sharing their stories about the Great War. Anyone with stories, memories or memorabilia should call Kate or Lisa Shepherd on 07812 332964.

Royal seal of approval for police cadets

STAFFORDSHIRE Police Cadets were given the royal seal of approval at an event in Lichfield.

Four Cadets from Cannock and Stafford were on duty to welcome Princess Alexandra to Police Mutual's headquarters in Lichfield on July 11.

Police Mutual became the inaugural patrons of the Cadets scheme and paid for uniforms for the first unit when it launched in Stafford last year.

Princess Alexandra was returning to the headquarters which she officially opened when Police Mutual moved to Lichfield in 1970. Deputy PCC Sue Arnold, who was at the royal event along with Chief Constable Mike Cunningham, said: "The Cadets were spectacular and looked at ease meeting royalty as if it was an everyday occurrence."

Shining

"They spoke to Princess Alexandra and carried out duties including opening the car doors for her to alight and leave.

"In just over 12 months since the first unit was launched, the service has made a real difference to the lives of over 100 young people – and this event was a shining example of the high standards they are setting."

Dancing days recalled from the past 50 years

WHEN the founder of a popular ballet school set it up 50 years ago in a garage – she never imagined it would grow into a lasting institution.

Over the decades Walsall Academy of Dance has seen aspiring stars join the ranks of famous ballet troupes, appear on the stage as well as the big screen.

Celebrities who found fame after cutting their teeth at the Butts Street studio in the art of ballet, tap and modern dance include Brownhills supermodel Erin O'Connor and Cannock Nativity! star Ben Wilby.

Former boss Diane Millard set up the academy in 1964 with just five pupils in a garage at her parents' home in Leamore. "I just wanted to teach dance. I was lucky enough to be trained by Madam Helena Lehmski who taught me not only the classical English ballet method, but also the Italian and the Russian methods."

"I was on a mission and fortunately I got the children who were also dedicated and the parents were fantastic,"

MEMORY LANE

by Deborah Hardiman

Miss Millard, aged 70, says. Soon her reputation grew and by the 1970s her charges were performing live on children's TV shows Tiswas and Kids World. Over the decades there have been roles in ballets and pantomimes including a stint with Cannon and Ball in Aladdin.

The school is a force to reckon with at competitions and for seven years running in the 1980s and 1990s took the top spots at the British dance championships.

Former pupils have joined the ranks of the Royal Ballet and appeared in musicals including Rock of Ages, Aspects of Love, the Batman World Tour, at the Moulin Rouge in France, or are snapped up by cruise ship operators.

In 1989 Staffordshire's Lisa Waddingham, then just 18, was picked by composer Andrew Lloyd-Webber for the Royal Variety Performance after he spotted her in a touring version of Cats. Meanwhile Streetly's Drew McOnie in 2010 was a contestant on the TV talent series So You Think You Can Dance? Others have opened their own dance schools. While some are among the second generation of their family to attend. These include Summer Seager-Coles, 13, of Barton under Needwood, and her mother Andrea, who was a pupil there in 1968.

The 180-pupil strong academy is now run by current principal Christa Collard, who was signed up at the school aged two.

Standards

She took over the reins four years ago. Miss Collard says: "At WAD we pride ourselves on offering high standards of teaching allowing students to gain dance qualifications, alongside gaining performance opportunities and having fun."

"The school is growing every year and we continue to go from strength to strength."

This year three aspiring ballerinas Amy York, 19, Jordan Sylvester, 17, and Clare Newton-Sheppard, 18, have been accepted to study at the Royal Academy of Dance, in London.

Ride and stride for churches

RIDERS and striders will be striving to visit as many churches as they can during an event which takes in Rugeley.

The annual Ride and Stride is being held on September 13 in aid of the Staffordshire Historic Churches. It was founded in 1953 to help buildings with the cost of repairs.

Participants are sponsored to visit as many churches as they can between 10am and 6pm. A trophy is awarded to the one who visits the most.

Last year, there were 157 participating churches across the county, attracting 110 cyclists and walkers and £14,000 was raised towards repairs and essential maintenance.

To take part, contact staugustinesrugeley@a2.co.uk or visit www.staffordshirehistoricchurches.org

Centenary is marked

RUGELEY churchgoers can commemorate those who lost their lives in the Great War next weekend.

Churches Together is hosting the service of commemoration to mark the 100th anniversary of the start of the conflict.

It takes place at St Augustine's church, from 3pm on Sunday, August 3, followed by silent reflection at the war memorial.

FOCUS ON RUGELEY

Campaign launched to spread word on market

A CAMPAIGN to spread the word about Rugeley indoor market is being launched by Cannock Chase District Council in a bid to entice more visitors.

An art project involving young people and their families is also being launched by the council. The aim of the initiative is to make the exterior of the market more colourful and attractive.

In June the council asked residents for their thoughts on the indoor market and received 266 responses.

The Support Your Local Market campaign will be launched later this month to encourage more people to shop at the market.

The council will also be working with young people from Rugeley to make the exterior more welcoming.

Displayed

Workshops will be held during the summer holiday for young people and their families to get involved.

Children's work, on the theme of shopping, will be displayed inside the market.

Councillor Diane Todd, town centre regeneration portfolio holder, said: "Thank you to everyone who took part in our consultation. The responses show the wide range of goods and services that people buy there and show that local people who use the market value what it offers and the role it plays in the local community.

"We're very grateful for the feedback we've received.

"One of the major themes was that the market needs brightening up, so we'll be working with local young people on an exciting art project to do just that.

"We'll also be launching a campaign to really spread the word about Rugeley indoor market and to attract more people through the doors to find out just what's on offer."

The survey results can be found at www.cannock-chasedc.gov.uk/rugeleymarketresults

Some of the youngsters with their state-of-the-art scrapbooks

100 years charted in IT project

YOUNG pupils celebrated their school's 100th anniversary by creating scrapbooks marking its history.

Pupils at Henry Chadwick Primary in Hill Rdware put together the books depicting the school's history using state-of-the-art technology.

The youngsters used an app called Augmented Reality to help with the project.

They were able to link videos to their photos and when viewed through an iPad the app would pick up on videos and content related to the image.

ICT co-ordinator Vicki Barnes said: "I was trying to think of different ways to mark the centenary and get the entire school excited about using the technology in our classrooms.

"The result has been brilliant. The staff and children loved the project."

Repairs to buildings under way

TWO more historic commercial buildings in Rugeley are to be extensively refurbished.

Roofs windows, wall and shop fronts are being repaired to help preserve the town's unique character and appearance as part of a grant scheme, matched by property owners.

Refurbishment of the first two buildings in Anson Street was completed during 2013. Work on the two buildings in Market Street and Market Square is now under way with four further buildings in Market Square, Lower Brook Street, Brook Square and Horse Fair to follow later this year.

The grants help businesses make repairs by contributing more than half the cost to help safeguard the long-term future of key buildings in town centre conservation areas.

Nursery to open doors

A NEW nursery is to open in Rugeley after it passed its Ofsted registration.

Little Treasures opens on Monday, September 8 at The Church of Good Shepherd on the Pear Tree Estate. It will offer 15 hours of free childcare for two, three and four-year-olds.

Search for key health provider

PLANS to transform end-of-life care across Staffordshire over the next decade has reached an important milestone with the start of the official procurement process to find a lead provider.

The first stage is the issuing of a questionnaire for completion by any organisation or consortia interested in being considered for the role.

A similar exercise to transform cancer care across the county started in June 2014. Four NHS-run CCGs in Staffordshire, including Cannock Chase and Stafford and Surrounds, and NHS England with the support of Macmillan Cancer Support, Staffordshire County Council, Stoke-on-Trent City Council and Public Health England are working together to change the system for providing care for the elderly in the future.

The programme is one of 14 NHS England integration pioneers looking to develop methods of providing more integrated care. The process should take 10 years to complete.

Council will not join HS2 lobby group

STAFFORDSHIRE County Council has refused to join an anti-HS2 group despite a petition from 5,000 people. Campaigners want the authority to become part of 51M – a group of 19 local authorities that have united to oppose the £50 billion high speed rail project.

But bosses have rejected the idea – conceding that HS2 ‘will go ahead’ and that the council should concentrate on fighting blight and securing compensation for residents rather than trying to fight the entire project.

Bosses are also worried that the authority would have to pay a share of legal costs that are hanging over members of 51M after losing High Court cases against the Government.

Wheels in motion on re-cycle shop

Trustee Richard Lawrence at Cycle-R in Cannock

THE wheels are in motion at a new shop which aims to get families on their bikes. The Cycle-R shop has thrown open its doors to people looking for affordable bikes.

It recycles used bikes and old stock donated from shops. There are also plans to approach landfill operators to hand over any used bikes that householders have thrown out.

The trustees set up shop, in High Green Court, Cannock, with the help of a £10,000 grant from The Big Lottery Fund and £15,000 from the Staffordshire Community Foundation in partnership with the European Social Fund. Other amounts have come from the Co-Op and Warburtons.

Cycles will be repaired, renovated and sold on with each one costing an estimated £50 and £110.

In addition to five apprentices, the scheme is being served by four volunteers and trustees Mark Ellis, Russ Taylor and Richard Lawrence, who said: “The concept involves us working with people who are long-term unemployed, youth

The council’s infrastructure leader councillor Mark Winnington said: “I applaud the campaigners for the efforts and we, like them, are vehemently against HS2.

“In terms of 51M I think we have got to realise that as a county council we have discussed this option and come to a democratic decision as to the way we handle HS2.

“This is fighting for mitigation, compensation, lobbying hard and making sure it is a fair deal for the people affected.

“We have to accept HS2 will happen.”

He said the council had already committed £200,000 to spend on officially petitioning the legislation which is likely to see the authority appear before MPs and suggest changes.

Stafford Borough Council and Lichfield District Council are already members of 51M – but Mr Winnington said lawyers had advised the county council they could be liable for any costs from failed judicial reviews totalling hundreds of thousands of pounds.

But Ukip councillor Derrick Huckfield supported calls to join the group. He said: “The more councils that join the better the chance of stopping HS2.”

Enjoy bacon bap

CHURCH Hall visitors in Cannock can enjoy a bacon roll this weekend. Tea, coffee and sausage baps will also be served at St Chads Hall from 10am to noon on Saturday. Stalls will sell a variety of items from 50p and there will be a raffle.

Top stars to line up

ORGANISERS of a concert in memory of Stephen Sutton say they are in talks with a number of high profile performers.

The Smile for Stephen Show is at Birmingham’s LG Arena on November 30. It has been organised by Free Radio in aid of the Teenage Cancer Trust.

Spokesman Anna Nalborczyk said: “We are in talks with a number of acts and hope to make an announcement soon.”

Youngsters are set reading challenge

LIBRARIES across Staffordshire are encouraging youngsters to take part in the Summer Reading Challenge.

More than 14,000 children took part last year. This year’s theme is Mythical Maze.

The annual challenge is designed as a fun way to encourage youngsters to keep up their reading levels during the summer holidays.

Youngsters will be challenged to read six books and will receive a medal and certificate at the end.

The challenge is open to any children in Staffordshire aged four to 11.

Staffordshire County Council’s library boss Councillor Mike Lawrence said: “It’s important to encourage our children to keep reading over the long summer break to avoid the summer learning dip.”

Dame Janet in South African play

ACCLAIMED Johannesburg-born actress Jane Suzman is appearing at Birmingham Rep alongside up-and-coming young South African actor Khayalethu Anthony in Solomon and Marion, written and directed by Lara Foot.

The production in the Rep Studio from October 16 to November 1 will pair Dame Janet, who was nominated for an Oscar in 1971 for her role as the Tsarina in Nicholas and Alexandra, with the 26-year-old actor who played a radical prisoner in Mandela biopic Long Walk to Freedom.

Set in South Africa as unrest precedes the 2010 World Cup, it charts the relationship between an elderly widow and the grandson of her former servant. Call 0121 236 4455.

Satellite rockers come in to land

PROGRESSIVE rock band Anathema will be playing Wolverhampton's Slade Rooms on September 25.

The concert will come hot on the heels of the release of the Liverpool band's 10th studio album, Distant Satellites, which was launched this summer. Distant Satellites is a follow-up to the 2012 album Weather Systems and was recorded in Oslo. Tickets are priced £16.50.

Birmingham heavy metal veterans Jameson Raid will be playing their only UK date this year in Bilston.

The band, formed in 1975, play at the Robin 2 on November 24. Tickets in advance are £10.

Magical show puts spellbinding spin on much-loved tale of Oz

Wicked logistics on stage

BACK stage at a London West End hit, where the show remains in one venue for a long run, certainly takes some organisation but just imagine how complicated it is for a touring production which moves from city to city.

That is precisely what Anthony Field, the company manager for the 2014 UK tour of hit musical Wicked, faces on a regular basis. As Wicked takes up residence at Birmingham Hippodrome along with it comes no less than 12 HGVs full of all things green, to ensure audiences are treated to an amazing theatrical experience.

Sublime organisation is the key and at any one of the nine productions of Wicked currently running across the world, every item is placed in exactly the same spot backstage, thus ensuring that the resident stage crew is able to create as perfect a performance as possible.

I WILL never be able to watch The Wizard of Oz in the same way again. Judy Garland and her pals can follow their Yellow Brick Road from here to eternity now, I feel deceived.

I always had a bit of sympathy for the Wicked Witch — she did find her sister squashed — but now I fully appreciate what a bad rap this scapegoat got.

My eyes have been opened thanks to the opening in Birmingham of Wicked, the untold stories of the witches of Oz. Judging by the reception from the Hippodrome crowd, there are a few more supporters in the Wicked Witch's green corner now.

Wicked is a captivating musical. It has all the magic (no pun intended) that you would expect from such a top-notch West End show.

There are some great hi-tech effects, choreography is superb and the costumes flamboyant. But it is also a clever story entwined with the Wizard of Oz that we know and love, reflecting the plot of the film yet ultimately leaving the audience distanced from the tale they thought they knew.

The star of the musical, Elphaba was played on press night by understudy Jemma Alexander — and what a performance she gave. She seamlessly transformed from 'freak' to heroine, winning the hearts of the audience with her grit yet obvious vulnerability.

A high point was her uplifting performance of Defying Gravity as she flew above the stage. Emily Tierney put in a powerful performance as dizzy white witch Glinda who also undergoes a striking transformation of her own. The musical focuses on the relationship between Elphaba and Glinda. The two 'witches' were rightly rewarded with a standing ovation.

Wicked is spellbinding. An excellent cast, solid score and a thought-provoking story that makes you completely rethink the Wizard of Oz. Christmas viewing will never be the same. Runs until September 6.

T.Rextasy born to boogie again

THOSE inspired by Marc Bolan musical 20th Century Boy, recently staged in Wolverhampton and Birmingham, can show that they were born to boogie again when top tribute act T.Rextasy Get It On at Bilston's Robin 2 venue on Saturday, August 23.

The corkscrew-haired groover, who would have been 67 this year had he survived a fatal car crash in 1977, is celebrated by amazing soundalike Daniel who has been playing the music of Bolan and T.Rex for more than 20 years. Get set for such classics as Metal Guru, Ride A White Swan, Hot Love and, of course, 20th Century Boy.

Tickets cost £12.50 in advance (call 01902 401211) or a £13.50 on the door.

Tim is to front the Jersey Boys

WEST End actor Tim Driesen has been cast as Frankie Valli in the touring production of hit musical Jersey Boys, which comes to Birmingham's New Alexandra Theatre during the festive season.

Driesen has been leading the cast in the Dutch production of the show and has also performed in Rock of Ages and Never Forget in the West End.

The story of 1960s and 70s hitmakers The Four Seasons, recently made into a movie by director Clint Eastwood, makes its first Midlands appearance at Stoke Regent Theatre October 28 to November 8 before its Brum stint from December 9 to January 3.

Tom's Fantastic Floating Home (Channel 4, 7pm)
New series. Tom Lawton has been responsible for a host of inventions, including skate bikes, 360-degree bubble cameras, wind-powered lighting systems and recordable alarm clocks. In this programme, he is using his creative imagination to transform a derelict boat into a home filled with practical inventions for everyday life. He begins by tackling the challenges of shelter and security, coming up with an 'all-seeing eye' to ward off intruders, an armadillo-inspired retractable roof and a garden that maintains itself.

The backstroke promises to be fast and furious, featuring as it does a one-length sprint for glory, and England's Liam Tancock won gold four years ago in Delhi in a new Games record, as he did in the 100m, making him one of the stand-out performers in the pool as the England squad finished well behind Australia in the standings. The Australians have since unearthed another star in the shape of James Magnussen, who will expect to be victorious in the freestyle, having won silver at London 2012 to add to his two world championship triumphs. As for the home support, they will be cheering on Scotland in the relay, in which they won silver four years ago – one of only six medals they managed to win in the swimming events. PICK OF THE WEEKMake a note to tune in to Alan's new series

Oh look, it's just what we were all crying out for – another new TV talent show.

But before you get start getting too cynical, this new singing contest does have a twist, and we're not talking about chairs that spin round.

Thanks to a real-time interactive app, the viewing public won't have to listen to the opinions of a panel of expert judges before they are allowed to start voting, but will be able to take complete control of the show themselves.

Perhaps we should let presenter Alan Carr explain it. The Chatty Man says: "When they said it was a singing show, I thought 'No, no, no!' But when I saw this app, I thought it felt really different."

"While the singers are performing their song on the show, they're standing on a conveyor belt called The Track. If you like them, you press 'hit' if you don't you press 'miss'. The more hits they get, they move towards the gold zone, where they could win up to £10,000. Or, if it's all 'Misses', you could disappear backwards through the flaps to a life of misery."

He adds: "But people can't vote unless they've downloaded the app. Well, they can shout at the telly, but it's not going to make a blind bit of difference."

And according to Carr, that's not the only thing that makes The Singer Take It All stand out. For a start, unlike certain other TV talent contests we can name, it definitely won't be taking itself too seriously, or promising to turn anyone into an international superstar.

The comedian says: "We're not saying 'Ten million records.' It's got the same feel to it as when you do karaoke down the pub - there's no pressure, just come and have a go."

"And there's all of that rubbish on the talent shows of 'I don't like you... [pause]... I LOVE you! You're a dark horse. This competition just got exciting.' Here there isn't any of that, it's stripped bare. Nobody's cat has just died."

What The Singer Takes It All does have though is a celebrity guest who will give a bit of guidance and feedback – and Carr has some practical advice of his own for the would-be warblers. "I've been on the conveyor belt, and it's very off-putting. When it jolts when you hit a bum note and the audience decides that you're rubbish, and it starts to move, it's really tricky. I would wear flat shoes, that would be my hint."

However, he admits he's in less of a position to give pointers on vocal technique.

"I can either do really low, like Barry White, or high like the Bee Gees or Kate Bush. There's no happy medium with my voice, I'm afraid. Actually, I wanted to sing a song at the end of the show like Cilla Black did on Surprise, Surprise. Strangely, they said no."

At least the contestants are guaranteed to be heard, even if they don't stick around for long.

Alan Carr, The Singer Takes It All, Friday, Channel 4, 9pm*BEST OF THE REST*MONDAY*Blinging Up Baby*Channel 5, 9pm

Some parents can't really see the point of spending loads on money on their kids' clothing when it's only going to end up covered in food, before being outgrown in a matter of months. But others think nothing of giving their babies and toddlers designer wardrobes and crystal-covered dummies, even though, as this documentary discovers, all that bling comes at a price. Essex student and single mum Sophie May Dixon describes her daughters, four-year-old Princess Bliss Tiana May and one-year-old Precious Bell Ruby Rosina, as 'Barbie babies', but not everyone is impressed with their spray tans and frothy pink dresses – she's been criticised on social media, and her windows have been egged.

Long Lost FamilyITV, 9pm

Family man Richard Cue, 57, has always felt grateful for the love and support he received from his adoptive parents, so he wants to find his birth mother to thank her for the sacrifice she made in giving him up in 1957. Having accessed his records, however, he has been searching for almost a decade with little success. Tania Bartlett's mother Julie fell pregnant to Iranian student Ahmed Kazem in the early 1960s, but the couple drifted apart when Julie felt unable to join Ahmed to start a new life in America. Despite intermittent contact with her father in the late 1970s and early 1980s, Tania has spent the past 30 years searching for him, not knowing if he is even alive. Davina McCall and Nicky Campbell bring these families back together.

TUESDAYCSI: Crime Scene Investigation*Channel 5, 9pm

A seedy motel, a series of nasty but mysterious murders and a suspect who is clearly mentally ill... Are the members of Las Vegas's premier crime-solving team entering into Alfred Hitchcock territory? It sounds the outline of the plot of Psycho, doesn't it? You'll have to wait and see if the finale involves a bloke dressed up as his mother, but the case certainly leaves the team scratching its collective head. They're called to the Sky View motel after the bodies of Richard and Anne Smith are found there. They're the fourth victims in the space of three months, and the person responsible leads the team on a very grisly trail.

This Old Thing: The Vintage Clothes Show, Channel 4, 8pm*WEDNESDAY*This Old Thing: The Vintage Clothes Show*Channel 4, 8pm

It's the last episode of the series, so will its producers do something a little bit different with the format? Sadly, no – instead, we can expect the same sort of person involved as we've seen for the past five weeks. So meet Lucie, a London lass with seemingly thousands of items of clothing, none of which make her happy. She's got a holiday in Ibiza coming up and is determined to look like a million dollars while standing out from the crowd. She isn't a convert to vintage – yet. But you can bet that host Dawn O'Porter will have persuaded her to try on something at least 20 years old before the closing credits roll.

THURSDAYAutopsy: The Last Hours of*Karen Carpenter*Channel 5, 9pm

In case you didn't know it, Karen Carpenter was half of the brother-and-sister singing sensation The Carpenters. Their feelgood 1970s hits such as Goodbye to Love, Close to You and Rainy Days and Mondays helped make their fortune, and on this side of the Pond they seemed like a permanent fixture on Radio 2. However, behind the scenes, Karen's weight problems left her painfully thin. She collapsed and died 31 years ago; the cause of death was emetine cardiotoxicity – a consequence of anorexia nervosa. With the aid of her autopsy report, Dr Richard Shepherd examines the last few weeks of Karen's life and attempts to unravel what happened on the fateful morning of her death in February 1983.

FRIDAYThe Million Pound Drop*Channel 4, 8pm

This Batta-winning game show has been running, off and on, for the past four years. Plenty of celebs have graced the show since 2010, including Alan Carr, Emma Bunton, Jonathan Ross, and more recently Stephen and Christopher from Gogglebox. However, it's usually Joe Public who provide the most entertainment as they attempt to boost their coffers and change their lives. This week it's the turn of Geoff and his granddaughter Daniella, and Tom and Lowri from Swansea. Davina McCall hosts.

AWARD-WINNING housebuilder Barratt Homes has sold the last property at its' Bracken Gardens development on Priory Avenue in Rugeley.

Lucy Turner, Sales Manager at Barratt Homes West Midlands said: "Bracken Gardens has completely sold out and buyers of all ages and stages of their lives now call Bracken Gardens home many through the Government backed Help to Buy scheme, benefitting from the lower deposit required."

Buyers now only need a fraction of the deposit they used to, thanks to Help to Buy. This new scheme is open to any homebuyers purchasing a new build property up to the value of £600,000. All you need is a five per cent deposit, and combined with a Government funded equity loan of 20 per cent, buyers only need a mortgage of 75 per cent.

Pictured is a Bracken Gardens street scene. Although Bracken Gardens has no more properties remaining for sale, Barratt Homes still has its Orton Place development for buyers to view, situated within walking distance of the bustling town of Burton-on-Trent, with a selection of high street stores, restaurants, bars and a multiplex cinema.

For more information about Barratt Homes' developments in the West Midlands call the sales information centre on 0844 811 9933 open seven days a week from 8am to 9pm. You can also log on to www.barratthomes.co.uk

Octavia's winning formula

By James Parker

Every once in a while, it's nice to give the system one right on the nose. It doesn't happen often, but when it does it's a sweet feeling.

Imagine getting that feeling every single time you drive your car. That's pretty much the deal with the Skoda Octavia GreenLine. If fuel prices make you feel as if you're being mugged, here's one of the most satisfying legal ways to hit back.

The best thing about this third generation Octavia is that in order to realise these minuscule fuel bills, the car asks very little of you in return.

It's big, it's got an engine that doesn't need help driving the car out of a wet paper bag and it's also even reasonably well equipped.

The Octavia GreenLine is powered by a diesel engine that manages a respectable 110PS, which is actually 5PS more than the otherwise similar 1.6 TDI units found in the rest of the Octavia range. This means it'll get to 62mph in a fraction over 10 seconds and top out at 128mph.

This 1.6-litre diesel engine comes from a tried and tested VW Group family renowned for being smooth, flexible and relaxing to drive. With 250Nm of torque on tap, it's not going to labour, even if you're five-up.

If you're not familiar with this third generation Octavia, then the first thing you'll notice is the fact that it's grown, and by quite some amount. The latest model is 90mm longer and 45mm wider than the second-generation Octavia.

At the same time, the wheelbase has grown by 108mm, mainly benefiting the interior and space on the rear seats. This means the Octavia is now almost as long as a Ford Mondeo and there's genuinely impressive rear seat space.

The boot has increased in space to 590-litres, distancing this MK3 model from its predecessor, a car that competed with typical family hatchbacks like Ford Focus, a model offering just 320 litres under the rear hatch. Now you see how far this current Octavia has stepped up in size.

Estate

Need even more space? Then you can choose an estate variant with a 610-litre cargo area. Despite the notchback design, the standard version of this model remains a five-door car with a massive tailgate.

There's a really crisp, architectural neatness to the exterior design and detailing, with plenty of shape in the flanks, an elegant sweep to the roofline and a refreshing simplicity to the front end. The interior is similarly simple and elegant as a result. Materials quality has improved and there's stacks of clever storage ideas.

Skoda asks just over £20,000 for the Octavia GreenLine hatch, which means that you're looking at just under £2,000 more than you'd pay for an entry-level 1.6 TDI Octavia in base S trim.

Given that you get an additional 14 miles from a gallon of fuel in the GreenLine, you'd have to drive 140,000 miles in it to reap back that additional cost in fuel savings alone.

Still, that doesn't take into account the fact that the GreenLine comes with quite a bit of additional equipment.

It gets acoustic rear parking sensors, dual-zone climate control air conditioning with humidity sensor and control, and cornering front fog lights, none of which you'll find on the S model. In fact it sits somewhere between the SE and the Elegance in Skoda's trim walk up.

Go for the estate version and you're looking at an £800 premium. Whichever bodystyle you select, the cabin is quite low key with black fabric seating, and very little in the way of colour. Safety equipment includes ESP stability control, hill hold control, parking sensors, rest assist, twin front, side and curtain airbags, a driver's knee airbag and a tyre pressure monitoring system.

There aren't too many cars in this size class that can approach the Octavia GreenLine's running costs. The headline figure is that 88.3mpg combined fuel economy figure. On a longer run, it'll better 94mpg and a few hypermiling techniques might well see the car top 100mpg.

A student is a class act and a challenge

By David Banner

The Mercedes A180 CDI SE ECO might well be a car you'd never previously considered if you were maybe looking at a Focus or an Astra.

If you can downsize one notch, you get a car that's cheaper to run, better built inside and comes with some sophisticated technology that makes it feel like money extremely well spent.

This generation A-Class is a class act and one that presents a real challenge to rivals and a real tempter for those who always thought buying and running a Mercedes-Benz was out of their reach.

The ECO version of the A180 CDI SE features an aerodynamic grille element, coupled with underbody panelling and suspension that's lowered by 10mm front and 15mm at the rear, giving it a nicely hunkered down appearance.

All trim elements have been given an electroplated finish, resulting in real metal surfaces with a "cool touch" effect. The instrument panel is divided into a wing profile-type upper section and a solid lower section. Perhaps the most interesting design touch is what looks like an iPad sitting on the upper part of the centre console but which is in fact an integrated touch-screen system which syncs seamlessly with a smartphone.

For around £22,000, you do get air conditioning, electric windows all round, sports seats, a trip computer, ARTICO and cloth upholstery, the Audio 20 radio with CD, tablet-style colour display, six speakers, telephone keypad, and Bluetooth and USB inputs. The wheels are perhaps the only part of the car that look as if they could benefit from having a bit of money thrown at them, but be aware that going for a set of alloys bigger than the 16-inch ten-spoke rims that the A180 CDI SE ECO comes with will see your fuel economy dip a little. In fact, Mercedes is remarkably generous with their equipment provision for the entry-level SE trim. Some rival manufacturers strip out the lower models in a range, but about 90 per cent of the goodies that you get in a range topping AMG Sport A-Class you'll also find in this SE.

The asking price of around £22,000 looks reasonable value given the amount of equipment you get and resale values of this latest A-Class have held up very well. You'll need to be a little careful when choosing options to protect those residuals but otherwise there's little to worry about here. Even the pre-ECO Mercedes A180 CDI SE would only cost you around 48 pence per mile to run over a three year/36,000 mile ownership tenure. That you can spend about the same asking price on a Ford Focus diesel that will cost around 55p/m to run demonstrates that Mercedes is offering a viable alternative to the mainstream badges here.

The Mercedes-Benz A180 CDI SE is a very interesting vehicle. We normally think of Mercedes as a company that's all about power and prestige, but here's a car that makes a diesel Ford Focus look expensive to run and feels like a product several notches removed in terms of quality and sense of occasion. Yes, it's a smaller car than a Focus and that may well be an issue but it's hardly cramped inside and comes with safety features that family buyers will certainly value.

So if you thought you were in the market for a Ford, a Vauxhall or a Renault, it's worth doing the sums, taking a test drive and seeing whether the Mercedes A180 CDI SE ECO will work for you. We're betting it will and we'd also wager that you wouldn't regret your decision to buy it. Just try it. You'll see.

Venga just one of Kia's models to up its game

By Sharon Walters

Kia's good-looking and roomy supermini MPV isn't quite there yet in terms of cabin quality but it isn't far off. Aspects of the interior feel really classy and the folding rear seats work well.

The 1.4-litre CRDi diesel isn't the Venga's best unit but it delivers 63mpg economy with the aid of a standard stop/start system.

As car buyers we like our preconceptions. Without them how could we possibly make sense of the monumental range of choice we're faced with?

There are just too many cars out there and it's really useful if we can dismiss some of them out of hand based on what we think we know about the companies that make them. Now get ready for the bad news, if you don't occasionally revise these prejudices towards certain makes or models, you might end up missing out in a big way. For example and like it or not, anybody looking for a small family car with a diesel engine should at least consider the Kia Venga 1.4 CRDi.

If you're thinking that Kia makes basic, cheap cars that fall below the quality standards set but the big name brands, you've just proven the point about revising those preconceptions from time to time. Much to the consternation of Ford, Vauxhall, Volkswagen, Renault and the other companies that UK car buyers gravitate towards by default, Kia has been on the up.

We've seen a concerted effort by the Korean firm to up its game and compete on an equal footing with the big players.

The Venga is a supermini MPV and prime evidence of the progress that has been made. It's built in Europe to European quality standards and designed to European tastes for sale on the European market. As Europeans and with Kia having gone to all this trouble, we really should give it a chance.

It's the diesel Venga we're concerned with here, a model that will be crucial to the car's success in its intended European heartland. The engine is a 1.4-litre CRDi common-rail injection unit with 89bhp at 4,000rpm and 163Nm of torque between 1,750 and 2,750rpm.

Acceleration from 0-62mph takes 14seconds which is far from lively but the engine gives up its power in a smooth manner with good flexibility. It's not the most refined unit, filling the cabin with booming sound when pushed hard and coming over a little coarse on part throttle.

The actual handling of the Venga is worthy of praise with the well-weighted steering provoking crisp responses.

Roundabouts

Don't expect anything too dynamic because this is a taller vehicle than a conventional supermini and its height is felt in corners through a bit of body roll. The chunky steering wheel feels good in the hands and the upright driving position affords good visibility, although the A-pillars do obstruct your view on roundabouts. The ride is comfortable, the suspension taking bumps in its stride, and the Venga generally feels very at home in the urban streets where most owners will use it.

The cabin is what it's all about here and the Venga is certainly roomy with plenty of legroom and a boot of 440-litres. Kia has put particular thought into how owners will accommodate their luggage and the boot area can be extended to 570 litres by sliding the rear seat forward or through the two-tier boot floor, even before you get involved in folding the rear seats down. When you are forced to employ Kia's Fold & Dive seating system, which operates with a reassuring solidity, the 60:40 split rear seats drop to create a flat load floor with a 1,552mm load length and a 1,253 litre capacity.

Kia's quest to enhance the quality of its products has been a successful one and the parts of the Venga that you look at and touch most regularly appear to be a match for the sector's finest.

The design is uncomplicated and there are nice details like the tactile metallic bezels on the main dials and the crisp illumination of the instruments.

Before it began clambering up market, Kia was known for low prices and lots of equipment. You still get a fair bit of kit for your money in the Venga but the prices reflect Kia's desire for parity with mainstream rivals. The trim levels are handily dubbed 1, 2 and 3. The entry-level one featuring basics like electric windows, a CD stereo, the Fold & Dive seating system and a centre armrest. The car comes in a single five-door bodystyle with six-speed gearboxes for the diesel models featured here.

The diesel Vengas come with the EcoDynamics badge on their tailgates which refers to the presence of Kia's EcoDynamics fuel saving technology. The highlight of this is the ISG stop-start system which turns off the engine when the car is stationary and restarts it automatically when it's time to move off. The Venga also has gear-shift indicator lights and low rolling resistance tyres on versions with 15" or 16" wheels. The 1.4 CRDi diesel returns close to 63mpg on the combined cycle with emissions of 117g/km. This doesn't make it the cleanest car in the sector but it comes close.

Ditch the 911 dream, try the Cayman S – it's the real deal

Porsche's baby 911 has always been close to its big brother, but in the right spec, the Cayman S could make you ditch the dream forever.

Porsche introduced an all-new Cayman in 2013 and it was essentially just that; a new structure and chassis, new engines, a new exterior design and a far superior cabin.

The standard Cayman proved to be a terrific thing in its own right, but as with many high performance cars, getting the right specification is everything.

This then is arguably the ultimate specification Cayman; in S form with the more powerful 3.4-litre 321bhp engine, the purist's choice of six-speed manual gearbox, the pricey but superb carbon ceramic brakes and the uncompromising but superbly supportive bucket seats.

Where the previous Cayman was a relatively discreet-looking machine, the latest version has a bit more personality.

There are shades of the 918 Spyder in the front end and rather than hiding in the shadow of the 911, it's a car you could choose for its looks alone.

Image

Better still, the Cayman has the image to stand up in its own right. It's no longer the option if you can't afford a 911, in fact you may find the odd 911 owner questioning their judgement..

There's more space in the cabin for humans, and it's easier to get comfortable as a result. You'll find a little bit more storage in the cabin too; certainly a little less than a similarly-sized hatchback but you won't struggle to stash keys, phones and the like.

Luggage space requires a little more effort. There's 415 litres on offer, which sounds good, but as this is a mid-engined car, the space is divided between the front and the rear – so take squashy bags rather than big suitcases.

Everything feels just right from the hot seat; the driving position and the weight of the controls are sublime. Fire up the flat six and there is a complex, delicious growl from the exhaust – in fact the sports exhaust option means more noise, it's an essential choice.

The Cayman S is so well honed it can deal with the boring day-to-day driving without effort, but when the road opens up, you realise just how good it is. The steering is sharp but weighty and not hyperactive, while the handling balance is simply stunning. You can lean hard on it with complete confidence, and those carbon brakes are hugely reassuring. Most importantly, the 3.4-litre engine is slick, sonorous and deliciously fast.

A standard Cayman S checks in at a not-unreasonable £48,783 and for that money you'll have yourself an outstanding sports car. Of course, a few choice options can bump the price a little, and the standard equipment levels are fairly modest.

On the other hand, the Cayman is one of the least-depreciating cars you can buy, so should you be daft enough to sell it, you'll get more of your money back than with almost all rivals.

If you want your sports car to be a genuine ground-up road machine rather than a track refugee or a hopped-up version of a standard car, this is the one for you.

As long as you only need two seats, you could use it every day and not find it a chore, whereas if you're lucky enough for it to be your weekend play-thing, then your weekends are going to be amazing.

We can save you money!

X marking the spot for good value with latest crossover

By Sharon Walters

Residual values will rise while wholelife costs fall on new Nissan X-Trail. The new Nissan X-Trail will retain 53 per cent of its value after three years/30,000 miles, a nine per cent increase on the outgoing X-Trail, according to latest data from residual value (RV) setters CAP.

With residual values now in line with the new Qashqai, the RVs place the new X-Trail ahead of key competitors in the crossover/SUV category, making the X-Trail an attractive proposition for fleet managers.

The new £24,795 X-Trail Acenta 2WD five-seater manual now has an RV of 53 per cent or £12,800 after three years.

This means that the new X-Trail is set to retain approximately £2,000 more over its first three years of life compared to its outgoing equivalent, a healthy nine per cent increase.

The increase in residual value has had a positive contribution on the X-Trail's WLCs with the new version now 10 per cent less to run on a pence-per-mile basis when compared with the outgoing model – 99 pence per mile versus 110 pence per mile (outgoing model).

More importantly for Nissan, this makes it one of the segment's best, even when compared with traditional D Segment saloons.

Strong

Barry Beeston, Nissan GB Corporate Sales Director, commented: "Alongside the recently launched Qashqai, the new X-Trail is a strong prospect for fleet managers looking to reduce their running costs and maximise their investment during the vehicle's lifecycle.

"Not only will owners get more value for their new X-Trail after three years, but the associated benefit is a significant reduction in wholelife costs too – up to 10 per cent better versus its predecessor.

"The new X-Trail is fitted with an impressive list of safety and technology features as standard, while the striking design and the fact that it's been completely redesigned from the ground up means it now caters to a much broader range of customers than before – including those buyers in the traditional D segment.

Economical

"As a result of the uplift in RVs for new X-Trail, Nissan's latest crossover is now more economical to own and run and will build on Nissan's reputation for producing stylish, spacious, safe and economical crossover vehicle."

The new X-Trail launches with an advanced dCi 130 turbodiesel powerplant, capable of delivering combined fuel consumption of 57.6mpg while emitting just 129g/km CO₂, making it a convincing option for company car drivers.

With features such as forward emergency braking, driver attention alert, traffic sign recognition, lane departure warning, blind spot warning, moving object detection and high beam assist, the new X-Trail has confirmed Nissan's position as the world leader in crossovers.

● The all-new Nissan Qashqai proved it has the pulling power when it was named as The Overall Winner at the prestigious Tow Car Awards 2014.

The British-built model also won the 1,400kg-1,549kg (kerbweight) category.

Judges from the Camping and Caravanning Club and influential magazines Practical Caravan and What Car? tested a record 56 cars, before concluding the Qashqai 1.6 dCi 130PS Acenta Premium, priced from £25,780 RRP, is top of the tows.

For every life has a purpose to fill, a purpose which us humans can seldom understand.

But, she was a gift from

Goodness belongs to Heaven and I know she is watching us

May her soul Rest in Peace.

NOTICE TO READERS
Please be aware that when purchasing a puppy there are some simple guidelines you can follow to ensure that you are not purchasing from a Puppy Farmer:

1. Try to ensure you visit the puppy whilst it is still with it's Mother.
2. Do not arrange to collect a puppy from any other location than that of the breeder.
3. Ensure that you are given any KC documentation, if pedigree. Whilst Midland News Association publications take great care to avoid publication of advertisements from Puppy Farmers we cannot accept any liability should readers purchase from this kind of establishment.

Walsall triumph in double fightback

Walsall Wood 3 Rushall Olympic 2
WOOD came from behind twice, only going ahead in the 83rd minute to exact some form of revenge for last seasons Walsall Senior Cup defeat.

Walsall threatened first on eight minutes as a low cross was hit first time by Danny Forrest.

A poor crossfield defensive pass was intercepted by Marshall, his powerful low drive was pushed away by Mario Kisiel, Zac Martin first to react to slot home from close range.

The lead lasted less than a minute, Jenkins was penalised for handling outside his area. The central free kick in the D floated into the top left hand corner by Harry Harris to bring the scores level.

Two minutes into the second half the Pics were back in front a slide rule pass put Aaron Farrell in on the goal, to calmly slot the ball into the far corner of the net.

Ryan Wood scored next with an acrobatic overhead kick that just beat the outstretched hand of Chris Gemmell. The winner came in the 83rd minute, Luke Adams found Harris, his low cross was tucked away by McGhee.

Dean ready to tinker with tactics

DEAN Smith says he plans to tinker about tactically in a bid to give Walsall greater cutting edge this season.

The Saddlers boss is planning to trial several new formations in pre-season after admitting opposition teams had perhaps sussed out his side's game-plan in the closing stages of the last campaign.

On several occasions, particularly at home, the Saddlers found themselves struggling to break down teams who sat deep and the return of just 21 league goals at the Banks' was a record low.

Now the manager wants a Plan B - and maybe even a Plan C. "We are looking at a few things," said Smith.

Scholars handed a busy start to season

CHASETOWN have been handed a busy start to the new Evo-Stik First Division South season with two games in the first three days.

The Scholars start with a trip to Gresley on August 16 before going to Romulus 48 hours later.

The festive period includes derbies against Stafford Rangers and Tividale and they end with a trip to Kidsgrove on August 25.

Stafford Rangers will kick-off their Evo-Stik League First Division South campaign at Carlton Town on August 16.

The clash will be boss Neil Kitching's first competitive game in charge since taking over this summer.

The Marston Road men will then have back-to-back home games with Norton United and Mickleover Sports.

Saddlers' friendlies dogged by injuries

Torquay 2 Walsall 1

DEAN SMITH has returned to the Midlands with more injury concerns than he has recently become accustomed.

After Ben Purkiss suffered an ankle injury during the Saddlers' first training session in Exeter, striker Jordan Cook was stretchered off at Torquay on Saturday with a similar complaint.

Cook's yell of pain was audible around Plainmoor when he fell and landed awkwardly after jumping for a high ball.

Player and club will now face an anxious wait to find out the extent of the damage and both will hope that, as is the case with Purkiss, the time out will be measured in weeks rather than months.

The injury came seven minutes from the end of a first half in which little went right for the visitors.

Torquay led 2-0 at the break thanks to goals from Ashley Yeoman and Ryan Bowman and, against a Saddlers defence which looked worryingly fragile at times, it might have been more.

The usual caveats when assessing a pre-season friendly as always apply, but Smith later admitted he was unhappy with what was on show.

Positives came in the way his side responded after the break and in particular the performance of some of the Saddlers' young stars, most notably Reece Flanagan and Amadou Bakayoko, who combined for the latter's late consolation goal. Their progress is, after all, key to the club's philosophy of bringing through their own players.

Despite the home side's supremacy, the visitors might have taken the lead had Paul Downing hit the target from 10 yards out. As it was, O'Donnell was forced to beat away Bowman's powerful drive.

Football

On this evidence Flanagan particularly appears to have a bright future. Twice he tested Torquay's second-half goalkeeper Jordan Seabright.

Bakayoko's goal, meanwhile, was a testimony to perseverance as the young striker beat the defence to the ball after a poor first touch before lofting it over Seabright and into the roof of the net.

It wasn't enough to salvage the scoreline, but the development of these players promises to be exciting.

By contrast, there was little to cheer in the opening period with Martin Rice, who began in goal for the hosts, barely needing to break sweat.

Richard O'Donnell had a far busier time and prevented the hosts taking a fourth-minute lead when he tipped over Luke Young's free-kick.

Despite the home side's supremacy, the visitors might have taken the lead had Paul Downing hit the target from 10 yards out. As it was, O'Donnell was forced to beat away Bowman's powerful drive.

School pupils show their sporting diversity

SPORTING pupils in Rugeley have had a ball by winning a series of honours.

Youngsters at St Joseph's Catholic Primary have triumphed in a selection of sports which has seen them represent the county.

In netball the 10 and 11 year-old girls teams were local and league winners while also being Staffordshire county semi-finalists.

The boys also had success as tournamement winners in dodgeball as the trophies piled up.

This also saw the school become local winners and county representatives in kwik cricket and indoor athletics.

Deputy headteacher David Jobburns said: "This year has been a huge success for the children of St Joseph's Catholic Primary School.

"They have represented the county in football, netball, indoor athletics and kwik cricket. The children have worked really hard this year not only in their sports but also academically.

"Throughout all of their successes the children have been a credit to the school. They have displayed a good good sporting attitude which has been commented upon by other schools.

"Many of the children are moving on to high school at the end of this year and we wish them all the best."

Jones is put out at first attempt

WOLVERHAMPTON'S Wayne Jones tumbled out of the PDC World Matchplay at the first hurdle, writes Craig Birch.

Jones battled back to 3-3 against Andy Hamilton in the first round at Blackpool's Winter Gardens yesterday, but lost the next seven legs in a 10-3 defeat.

'The Wanderer' was 2-0 down before he got going in the second biggest tournament on the PDC calendar.

Hamilton flew out of the blocks, winning the bull and then landing two 180s in the opening leg. He doubled his lead with a break of throw which spurred Jones into action, landing a maximum of his own before double 13 brought him back into the match at 2-1.

He went another leg down after Hamilton took out 76 against the throw, but Jones again halved the deficit on double 16.

That made it 3-2 at the first break in play, double nine then restoring parity in the sixth leg for Jones as he held his throw for the first time.

But it all fell apart from there as Hamilton took command, Jones missing doubles as he played part in his own demise. A third 180 from Hamilton came in the eighth leg.

Saints will keep an eye on Vlaar

NEW Southampton boss Ronald Koeman has admitted he wants Villa's Ron Vlaar if Dejan Lovren joins Liverpool.

Vlaar - whose current Villa contract has just a year left to run - has been linked with several clubs after impressing while on international duty with the Netherlands during the World Cup this summer.

Now his fellow Dutchman Koeman, who managed Vlaar during his time at Feyernoord has openly admitted that he would like to link-up with the defender again should Lovren's £20m move to the Reds go through. "Ron would definitely be an option. But I think he won't be cheap," said Koeman."

Taylor is working to find his zone

ANDY TAYLOR is getting closer to where he wants to be, in more ways than one.

Physically, spiritually and even geographically, the Saddlers left-back is feeling content.

Free of the niggling injuries which blighted his pre-season 12 months ago, the 28-year-old has his eyes firmly on the future after signing a two-year deal earlier this month.

For almost two months, from the end of last season, supporters had pondered whether the former Blackburn Rovers man would stay or go. In reality, there was only one place Taylor wanted to be – it was merely a case of doing his homework.

"It was really just a case of sorting everything out off the pitch, family wise," he explains. "I have said from day one I do really enjoy the football at Walsall and I enjoy the way the manager works."

"It is a really progressive club, going in the right direction and it is good to be part of it. It was just a case of sorting things out with family. Once that was done I was happy to sign."

As is always the case when key players are out of contract, Taylor was linked to a different club almost every week.

There'll be no splashing the cash, says Jackett

WOLVES won't have to spend big to be a success in the Championship, says Kenny Jackett who has also ruled out selling stars.

Fulham, Bournemouth and Norwich have already splashed the cash as they gear up for a promotion push.

By contrast Wolves have so far added free transfers Tommy Rowe and Rajiv Van La Parra.

But while Molineux head coach Jackett wants to sign another striker, he is unconcerned by the money spent by others as he is convinced Wolves will be a threat.

"Wolves as a club has the potential to be a frontrunner in the Championship," he said. "We don't necessarily need to spend £11m to do it."

Danny Batth and Bakary Sako have been linked with moves to the Premier League recently but Jackett vowed none of his leading lights will be sold.

"That wouldn't be something we'd be entertaining," he said.

"We're looking at building a club and improving and signing a player when it's right."

"Getting picked off by bigger clubs isn't something we'll entertain."

Jackett believes Wolves will challenge but not by buying their way to promotion.

"Leicester had repeated investment but the season they went up they didn't spend that much," he said.

"They built the squad up and probably then needed a year to show some faith in the players. There are different ways to do it and I think we should do it our way." Meanwhile, Wolves have been linked with a move for teenage Swindon Town midfielder Louis Thompson – with Liam McAlinden a loan target for Bristol City.

Thompson, aged 19, plays alongside his older brother Nathan at the League One Robins and has also been watched by Leeds, after a breakthrough season.

Swindon's divisional rivals Bristol City could turn to McAlinden if they sell captain Sam Baldock.

But Scunthorpe manager Russ Wilcox is not hopeful of landing Leon Clarke, a former Iron loan star in 2012 having also worked together at Sheffield Wednesday.

Wilcox expects to remain at Molineux and make a go of a second spell at his home-town club, saying: "We have not made an enquiry."

"Not at all."

"Sometimes somebody puts something out there and, from one story or tweet, people jump on it, put two and two together and next minute, Leon Clarke is coming to Scunthorpe."

"That's not the case."

Knight to celebrate double delight for club

CANNOCK Chess Club is celebrating a double success one of which is winning the 'FA Cup' of The Cannock & District Chess League, the Chase Trophy.

The club were also League Division 3 Champions and were runners-up in Staffordshire Chess Associations' Jackson Trophy.

The awards were presented at a special night earlier this month by Manager of Bridgtown Social WMC, Mr Elton Whitehouse. The club then held a party to celebrate the occasion.

The club meets every Wednesday starting in September. Anyone wishing to join can contact Ray Dolan by emailing raymondolan5@gmail.com.

Teams meet at Bridgtown WMC, Walsall Road Cannock.

Among the club players are Matthew Carr, an English Chess Federation Arbiter, Ray Dolan, CEO of Midland Counties Chess Union, president and a founder member of the Cannock League.

Former Staffs county captain, junior coach and tutor Eunice Dolan, treasurer of the Cannock & DCL and Junior coach/tutor John Carr, club treasurer, Danny Torbica and past chairman Craig Horobin who was club champion 2013, and all the Team has had the honour of playing for the county.

Keeper in promise to up his game play

WALSALL keeper Richard O'Donnell has vowed to be even better this season after claiming he is fitter and stronger than ever before.

The 25-year-old flourished during his first year with the Saddlers, making huge strides as the campaign progressed to the point he ended it by being named players' player of the season.

But O'Donnell, who signed 12 months ago after a successful trial, has no intention of resting on his laurels and believes there are still plenty of areas where he can improve. "I think that is the one thing I have looked at over the summer," he said. "I've come back in good shape and I want to become even more athletic and agile."

"I feel fitter and stronger than I ever have before. Last season went really well but there are still areas where I need to improve."

"I feel better than I ever have before and I know I need to keep going and stay focused on my game, as does every member of the squad."

O'Donnell had been released by Chesterfield when he found his way to the Saddlers last summer, initially being invited in for a trial.

Darren bent on making his mark

Mansfield 1 Villa 3

BOSS Paul Lambert welcomed the 'Bomb Squad' back to Villa and insisted they will have a part to play.

Darren Bent scored twice in the second half as Villa came from behind to win their pre-season opener 3-1 at Mansfield.

Charles N'Zogbia, Alan Hutton and Shay Given also featured alongside Bent with the quartet recalled as Randy Lerner looks to get use out of the club's assets after they were previously frozen out.

Lambert said: "I've always known they have been good players. Everybody knows the situation that was going on with the football club. These lads have been brilliant."

Jackett can pick from two strikers

WOLVES boss Kenny Jackett looks set to choose between Chelsea prospect Patrick Bamford and Leicester's Chris Wood as his striker signing.

Head coach Jackett has added 20-year-old hotshot Bamford to his radar alongside former Albion target man Wood, who is 22, after deciding against paying out the £3m wanted for Callum Wilson.

Jackett is a long-term admirer of Wood, who enjoyed the most prolific spell of his career under the Wolves boss on loan at Millwall, scoring 11 goals in 19 games.

But whoever his choice is, Jackett indicated it may be a loan deal with a view to a permanent switch.

"We'd prefer our own players and a loan player we have a chance of signing at the end," said the Wolves boss.

"If it is a loan – and loans have been successful for us at times – we'd hope it's one that turns out to be a permanent deal."

Bamford scored on a rare start for Chelsea in their 5-0 win at Wycombe last week and has jetted off on their Austrian training camp.

Wood would appear to be further down the Leicester pecking order following the arrival of £8m Brighton striker Leonardo Ulloa.

Late leveller for Lockmen

FC Glades 1 Willenhall Town 1
 A SMALL squad made up mainly of trialists grabbed a late equaliser to draw a pre-season friendly.

With torrential rain, both teams struggled, but despite plenty of efforts and play, Glades took the lead just before half-time with a header.

With the rain easing and the water draining quickly, it made for a better second half.

Glades moved the ball quickly and accurately but struggled to create the final pass.

The Lockmen played excellent football down both wings with plenty of goal-mouth scrambles and near misses. Finally Craig Sudlow found the leveller when his free kick from the left hand side 20 yards out fairly flew off the surface and into the far corner of the net.

Owls are keeping a close eye on Johnson

SHEFFIELD WEDNESDAY have been in touch with Wolves over Roger Johnson again – but any transfer remains up in the air.

Wolves head coach Kenny Jackett was contacted last week by Owls manager Stuart Gray, with Johnson one of several topics discussed.

David Davis, who is available for a loan move, was also talked about. Wolves remain insistent they won't subsidise anyone's departure and, if Johnson was to return to Hillsborough, he would have to accept a pay cut on his estimated £25,000-a-week wages.

Football

"I had a call from Stuart Gray," said Jackett.

"But no, there hasn't been any advancement."

"It was just a general enquiry on a number of players. But you'd assume there would be interest because he (Johnson) did very well at Sheffield last year."

"He's very well thought of there, definitely, Stuart Gray speaks well of him."

"It may be at a level where Jez Moxey is talking to his (Johnson's) agent." Meanwhile, Jamie O'Hara will be allowed to leave on a free transfer.

The £5m midfielder, who has two years left on his contract, is still training with the youngsters and is desperate to resurrect his career elsewhere.

"I don't think a fee is part of the situation – the whole financial deal is complicated by somebody on high wages because people are going to pay all or a percentage of his wages," said Jackett.

Wolves will not pay up the remaining two years on O'Hara's contract.

"I doubt that's going to happen. What's more likely is him training and getting as fit as he possibly can this season and trying to get a break somewhere else," said Jackett. "There have been no discussions on a pay-off at all. He's available for transfer or for loan."

And Jackett hopes the 27-year-old, who took to TV for an interview in which he said his celebrity status "was like a dagger through my heart", can revive his career.

"I hope he gets that chance because he has a lot of footballing ability," said the boss.

Ricketts warning of battle

CAPTAIN Sam Ricketts has told Wolves fans to expect a Championship battle but believes promotion is a real target.

Wolves kick off in 20 days' time hoping to use the momentum that saw them win 17 out of their last 21 games in League One to propel them to another promotion push under Kenny Jackett.

But, while convinced Wolves can be among the frontrunners, Ricketts expects it to be a tougher ride in the coming season than last term.

"Promotion was the goal last year and it's the same again this year," said the skipper. "It's a big ask but that's where our thoughts are and this is a big opportunity for a young side."

"Clearly I hope I'm wrong, but getting back into the Championship, it's unlikely we're going to go on such a long unbeaten run or winning streak."

"If you could do that in the Championship you could run away with the league."

"You have to be realistic and think we'll probably lose more games than last year." Ricketts insists Wolves will continue to play stylish football.

Alfreton 2 Walsall 0
 SECOND-HALF goals from Jamie Jackson and Benny Clayton sent Walsall tumbling to another pre-season defeat at Alfreton Town.

The Saddlers had largely been in control when Jackson put the hosts ahead from close range. Clayton then headed home six minutes from time.

BURTON BREW UP WIN OVER PITMEN

Hednesford Town 0 Burton Albion 2

HEDNESFORD Town followed up their positive performance against Kidderminster Harriers last weekend with another encouraging performance against football league side Burton Albion.

There were positives from the game at a balmy Keys Park on Tuesday evening, despite eventually losing 2-0.

It was clear that The Brewers possessed the fitness, build and strength befitting of a full-time outfit but The Pitmen battled hard in the opening exchanges.

The Hednesford squad were unlucky to find themselves a goal down on 25 minutes when a Lucas Akins' shot squirmed through the grasp of Ryan Price and rolled into the net.

Outstanding

The home side should have levelled but for an outstanding save by Dean Lyness from a deflected Tom Thorley shot just before half time.

This attempt was followed by both Jamey Osborne and Paul McCone coming close shortly afterwards.

Steve Diggin almost opened his Pitmen account after the restart when Hednesford again piled on the pressure but couldn't quite find the shot that would be the equaliser.

Then as Burton re-asserted their dominance, Price made up for his first half mistake with two stunning point blank saves, firstly from Stuart Beavon and secondly from Adam McGurk.

Substitute Danny Glover snatched at a clear opening on the edge of the area with 20 minutes to go but as the game petered out it was Burton who scored their second goal when the impressive Akins squared for Phil Edwards to side foot home.

Harriers are held scoreless by Hednesford

Temper flare during the clash between Hednesford Town and Kidderminster at Keys Park

Hednesford Town 0 Kidderminster Harriers 0
 HEDNESFORD Town held Conference side Kidderminster Harriers to a goalless draw at a soggy Keys Park.

New signing Steve Diggin missed a glorious chance for Hednesford on the half-hour mark, side-footing wide from Paul McCone's knockdown.

Harriers winger Marvin Johnson should have scored shortly afterwards but dragged his shot wide.

McCone headed over from a corner just before the break and Tom Thorley went close again for the hosts before Johnson was denied by Dan Crane.

The impressive Danny Glover forced Jasbir Singh into a smart save with three minutes left and, with the last kick, substitute Alex Melbourne threw himself at a clearance only to see the ball fly inches wide.

In other matches, Dan Cope bagged a hat-trick as Stafford Rangers' youngsters thrashed Edgware Town 5-0.

Cope's heroics were followed by a second-half brace from 17-year-old Louis Downes as the Neil Kitching's side dominated.

Cope scored after four minutes when he finished from a Ryan Edmunds corner. Three minutes later it was 2-0 when Cope netted from the spot after Alex Curtis was fouled.
